HIGHER TERMSRelease of Captives Nearly Ends in FiascoChinese Demanded Increase of RansomVictims of Outlaws Rushed to Shanghai

(BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
SHANGHAI, June 13.—Six of the eight foreign captives released yesterday by the Shanghai bandits, after being held prisoners since May 6, arrived here today. Although the bandits, who were released generally, the victims apparently were little worse for their arduous experience.

Those arriving here today were O. D. Mues, J. B. Powell, Emil Gensburger, Fred of China, Leon Friedman and Leo Solomon. Maj. Roland W. Pinger, U.S.A., and R. H. Rowlett proceeded north to Tientsin and Peking, where relatives and friends were awaiting them. The former captives all received enthusiastic receptions at every station where their trains stopped.

NEAR FIASCO

It was stated that the final negotiations for the release of the prisoners nearly ended in a fiasco. The bandits at the last moment demanded that the ransom be increased to $100,000, and that they be paid $100,000 ransom for the release of the Chinese captives. The bandits eventually compromised by agreeing to pay $100,000.

DEMAND ACTION

All the former foreign captives are insisting that the fullest reparations and indemnities be demanded of China and that the governments take action to prevent future outbreaks. The bandits' victims said that during the last ten days of their captivity they were subjected to continuous insults.

Lee Solomon brought out his bandit guard, agreeing to use him as a servant. This man, who was served in the Russian army, was kidnapped by the bandits two years ago and forced to join them. He now professes absolute loyalty to his new master.

PAY TRIBUTE

Thousands of dollars a month are paid as tribute to the outlaws of the bandit-infested areas of China, according to the police here, who have been conducting an investigation of the recent Shanghai train hold-up and kidnapping outrages.

Many merchants and traders dealing in the interior, it is said, are forced to pay systematic tribute to the bandits to insure safe conduct of their merchandise through certain districts. The bandits are declared to maintain regular organizations and staffs of agents and collectors in the cities.

Frequently the brigands intercept shipments going to the interior, confiscating the merchandise and terrorizing the merchants. A favorite method in use by the outlaws to force the victims to disgorge their money and valuables is to hold burning paper under their noses. Few of the tortured traders resist. This is supposed to terrorize other merchants so that they will increase their cash tribute.

POLICE DISCOVERED

The police discovered that virtually every prominent Chinese wishing to visit the birthplace of relatives, or the graves of ancestors in the interior, has been forced to pay large sums for safe conduct through the bandit zones.

espionage is maintained to enable the bandit agents to ascertain the dates when merchants and other travelers depart for the interior. The victims are then informed, before they start, the amount they must pay the brigands. View refuse to disclose the tribute.

The police of Shanghai estimate that the commercial traffic from this and other cities of China yields the outlaws millions annually.

A widespread effort has been launched to break up the system of collecting tribute by the brigands. The magistrates and gentry of the towns and villages adjacent to Shanghai are organizing volunteer companies for the purpose of combating the bands of robbers and pirates who are now terrorizing the region.

The number bands have shown increased boldness since the hold-up of the Shanghai-Peking express train, and further depredations are feared.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Anthracite operators, in a statement issued today to the Federal Coal Commission by Walter Gordon Merritt, their counsel, declared the public was under the mistaken impression that there is a lack of competition in the anthracite industry.

On the contrary, it was asserted, a highly competitive condition exists and no company or group exerts a dominating influence.

The statement pointed out that while eight companies in "active competition with each other, produce about 74 per cent of the total output of anthracite, the largest produces only 15 per cent of the total, and more than 100 so-called individual producers produce about 26 per cent.

"The balance of power," the statement continued, "is so distributed that no one can be dominated by any one concern or organization. The percentage of the total output marketed by individual operators has increased since 1902, thereby showing that their growth is not being prevented."

YOUTHS' CONFESSION

(BY A. P. DAY WIRE.)

WATSONVILLE, June 13.—Eight American youths, guarded by police, made a statement last night to leaders of the Chinese gang here that prevented a tong war. The boys confessed they had passed some bogus lottery tickets, circulation of which had aroused the mutual suspicion of the Hip Sing and Bing Kong tongs—old-time enemies. The boys admitted that they had collected about $100. The police said the rival tong leaders, who had been accusing each other of circulating the queer tickets, made peace immediately.

MILITARIST LEADERS
MEET TO RUN AFFAIRS(BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
PEKING, June 13.—What was left of the headless Chinese government conducted a session this afternoon. The gathering was attended by the members of the Cabinet, who will endeavor to function in the absence of a President. Vice-President and Premier until executives are chosen to fill vacant posts.

The Cabinet, headed by its Premier, Chang Hsue-Tung, headed the resignations of the President Li Yuan-Hung some time ago, but the President refused to accept them. Later Premier Chang retired to Tien-tsin and refused to resume office. Today President Li followed him, with the threat of armed action by the militarists.

Despite the political chaos, the capital is quiet and a feeling of relief from the tension of the past few days is in evidence as the menace of rioting diminishes.

China's Christian general, Feng Yu-Hsiang, was the active military power behind the plot which today forced President Li Yuan-Hung out of office and sent him in flight to Tien-tsin.

Gen. Feng and Wang Hual-Ching, head of the metropolitan police force of Peking, yesterday handed their resignations to President Li, declaring they no longer could hold office under him while their troops and patrolmen were unpaid.

President Li countered with a request that they withdraw their resignations. The President said Li was determined to hold the Presidency he issued his ultimatum that unless Li vacated his office troops would enter the capital.

Li, with a hostile army of his countrymen at the gates of his capital, refused to yield to the pressure and left for Tien-tsin on May 13.

An hour earlier Gen. Feng Yu-Hsiang, military inspector of the metropolitan area, had issued a statement warning that he would not be responsible for any bloodshed in the city.

The statement pointed out that while eight companies in "active competition with each other, produce about 74 per cent of the total output of anthracite, the largest produces only 15 per cent of the total, and more than 100 so-called individual producers produce about 26 per cent.

NEW YORK, June 13.—A new motion-picture machine which projects pictures by reflection upon a film of nonflammable paper instead of the penetration of light through a celluloid film was introduced today by the Harry Levey Service Corporation who are the exclusive distributors in America of the "Kinetoscope" as the machine will be known.

It was made in Great Britain. The projector, in its metal case weighs about thirty-five pounds and is light enough to be carried by hand. It is a celluloid film of light through a celluloid film was introduced today by the Harry Levey Service Corporation who are the exclusive distributors in America of the "Kinetoscope" as the machine will be known.

Both moving and still pictures may be projected by the machine, it was demonstrated.

An intensive light was focused on the screen. Scrape of postcard pictures and even a silver half-dollar were reproduced clearly on the silver sheet. Colors were reflected as easily as black and white, and without additional lighting. The projector, when required, and when the plug was inserted in the socket the film was projected without further preparation.

The film used was opaque paper, such as is used in printing snap shots. It has the same dimensions as celluloid film and is as easy to handle as the latter. The projector, when required, and when the plug was inserted in the socket the film was projected without further preparation.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)

SACRAMENTO, June 13.—Blue-sky laws, State and Federal regulation of mining and labor and immigration were the principal questions under discussion in today's joint session of the board of governors of the western division of the American Mining Congress and the department of mines and mining of the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce.

The movement for the session to take a stand on these questions was instituted when Edwin Higgins, member of the board of governors and president of the California Metals and Mineral Producers' Association, launched an attack on "too much government in the mining industry today."

He declared, "have been drawn by men who never saw a headlamp, and who are ignorant of the mining industry. I don't want to be understood as attacking the Industrial Accident Commission but I think we should go further. It is needed in the mining industry to create the Industrial Accident Commission but I do not believe it was arrived at by experts. What is needed is a law that will give education and co-operation with employees and less regulation."

Commenting on "blue sky" legislation Higgins declared that mining men of America "do not believe in giving the power to any individual or commission to say that a man is a dishonest miner. It gives too much opportunity for dishonesty in the commission."

RUM TREATIES

quarters, inasmuch as the chief complaint of some of the more important foreign nations, notably France and Great Britain, have been on this score.

Another serious objection advanced was that Great Britain already has formally rejected the suggestion of the United States that a reciprocal treaty be negotiated permitting search of her vessels up to the twelve-mile limit.

No fear was expressed by officials concerning the power of the Executive to conclude such a treaty, notwithstanding the decision of the Supreme Court declaring illegal the transit of liquor under seal through the United States, even though not for consumption within the United States.

NO APPREHENSION

Nor is any apprehension felt in administration circles that there is anything in the Eighteenth Amendment or the recent Supreme Court decision which would operate to make such a treaty illegal.

The United States government, it was asserted, has for its main purpose in this matter, the prevention of smuggling, the alleviation of outstanding controversies with foreign nations and the protection of American rights.

The bill provides for increasing the fee for credentials from $2 to $3 in the case of successful California applicants and from $2 to $3 in the case of non-residents.

Gov. Richardson also signed Assembly bill 44, correcting an error that has grown up in the matter of the repair of automobiles. The bill provides that repairs in excess of $100 cannot be made unless prior to the commencement of the work the person claiming a lien shall be given actual notice of such work. This bill is intended by the automobile clubs and other automobile organizations.

Assembly bill 263, regulating the sale and use of firearms and other dangerous weapons, likewise received the governor's approval. This bill, it is believed, will prevent persons from getting possession of weapons and is backed by the Peace Officers' Association and the Association of the State.

Senate bill 739, amending the inheritance tax law so as to conform with the recent community property law, was also signed by the Governor.

Following a conference with E. D. Clarke, C. E. Jarvis and Mrs. Jarvis, members of the Senate, Gov. Richardson approved the following bills:

Senate bills 444 and 450, amending certain provisions of the teachers' retirement act so as to clarify the law.

Senate bill 493 relating to the changes of boundaries of school districts.

Assembly bill 473, making certain sessions of the political code harmonious with other sections in the matter of union school districts.

Senate bill 445, giving the board of education power to fix the price of publications.

The Governor also signed Senate bill 488 regarding permits for starting fires. This bill has the approval of the State Board of Forestry and is intended to simplify the administration of the law in regard to the fire permits. It fixes the dry season as the period between May 15 and October 31.

Other bills signed today were: Assembly bill 785 relating to fees of county clerks.

Assembly bill 1291 giving a right of way to Los Angeles county over a road through the Pacific colony. Senate bill 18, placing the county recorder of Santa Clara county on a fee basis.

Senate bill 18 providing that county and city officials shall not be known for 5 years.

The assertion was made at a luncheon of the Chicago Association of Commerce. The Red government is the most stable in Europe, he asserted, adding that it was intent only on world revolution.
"Bolshevism is in Russia to stay unless outside nations interfere and break it up with a food or other blockade," he declared. "Through a so-called charity bureau—friends of Soviet Russia—more than $1,500,000 has been sent to Russia for starving persons. Practically every cent of this money has been used to feed the Red army."
The Soviet government is the most stable in Europe today. It is headed by a man of the most astute brains in Europe. Jews are at the head of the revolution. When one joins the Reds he drops away from religion and race and these Jews become parties to massacres and killings involving their former race.
"The Reds are out to destroy and kill. They have sent out thousands of agents throughout the world."

BURIAL SERVICES ARE CONDUCTED FOR MRS. SHOUP
(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
SAN FRANCISCO, June 13.—Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah Sumner Shoup, 82 years of age, who had been a resident of California for more than fifty years, were conducted here today. Many friends and members of her family were present at the service.
Mrs. Shoup was the widow of Timothy Shoup and the mother of Paul Shoup, vice-president of the Southern Pacific Company and president of the Pacific Electric Railway, the Associated Mill Company and the Pacific Oil Company. She also leaves two other sons, Guy Shoup, general counsel for the Southern Pacific, and Fred Shoup, general agent of the Associated Oil Company, and one daughter, Mrs. A. S. Robinson.
The body was taken to the family home at Knoxville, Iowa, by the three sons. Mrs. Shoup resided both in Northern and Southern California during her long life and is well known throughout the State.

C. C. BRIDGEMAN WAS WED TWO WEEKS AGO TO BERNICE HART
(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
NEW YORK, June 13.—Fearing she would go to London to join the "Music Box Revue," Charles C. Bridgeman, Pennsylvania University student, son of a Flint (Mich.) millionaire banker, eloped off in a silver with Bernice Johnson's "Bombo" company, and they were secretly married in Elkton, Md., two weeks ago, it became known today.
Nobody would have been the wiser yet but for the fact Bernice's mother was so thrilled she could not keep it from her friends. It took the news, relayed by mouth, two weeks to reach Flint, but Bridgeman, Sr., today wired his blessing.
Four years ago Bridgeman, then a student at Culver Military Academy, and Miss Hart, attending St. Agnes Academy at Indianapolis, met at a Culver commencement ball. It was love at first sight, but he didn't see her again for three years until recently.

GOVERNMENT PLANS CALL FOR THREE INVESTIGATIONS IN CALIFORNIA
(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
WASHINGTON, June 13.—The program of the Interior Department for irrigation investigation during the fiscal year 1924 was announced today by Secretary Work as comprising projects in eleven Western States. They include the following:
Arizona: On the Little Colorado and Williams Rivers and other tributaries of the Colorado below Lee's Ferry.
California: A new site for storage reservoir in Iron Canyon, and examination of a project for a movable dam on the lower Sacramento to prevent salt water from San Francisco Bay flowing into the Sacramento River; also examination of irrigation possibilities in the Hayfork River Valley.
Nevada: Use of the waters of the Virgin and Muddy rivers.
Oregon: Examination of the Warm Springs and adjacent projects.

AMAZING GROWTH OF AMERICA'S THIRST
FOUR BILLION BOTTLES OF SOFT DRINKS CONSUMED IN LAST YEAR
(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
WASHINGTON, June 13.—The Department of Agriculture reported today that the soft drinks consumed in this country in a single year make up a quantity of liquid refreshment so large that it is hard to conceive of such a volume of varicolored and varifavored waters. If last year's supply had been available at Methuselah at the beginning of his 949 years, he would have had eight bottles to dispose of every minute of his mortal life.
The figures show that last year 4,000,000,000 bottles of soft drinks, and this total does not include beverages, such as near-beer, made from cereals. This sparkling flood is poured out from 10,000 bottling establishments and over 110,000 soda counters.
"This enormous thirst-quenching industry is a direct result of the rapid commercializing of the discoveries of the chemist," says the department report.
When bottled sodas were universally known as "pop," and found their principal market at bars and saloons, their consumption was small. These clear, watery drinks, with a flavor usually suggestive of overripe bananas, came into vogue, but provided little delectation for the palate. Had not great changes taken place in the beverage industry, it is hardly probable it would ever have grown to present proportions.
WEIRD STORY TOLD BY CHINESE ON SCHOONER
THEY SAY MASTER OF VESSEL LEFT THEM AT SEA: SEVEN MISSING
(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
NEW YORK, June 13.—A two-masted schooner bearing on her stern the name Mary Beatrice of Nassau, sailed into quarantine today with fifteen young and well-dressed Chinese, the only occupants—a strange ship with a weird story of the sea.
When quarantine officials found nothing of cargo or papers, customs authorities were notified, an interpreter summoned and the strange story unfolded.
Twenty Chinese had bargained with the owner of the schooner, a white man, for $500 each, to take them aboard and land them somewhere on the American coast. On May 3, last, they set out from Havana, twenty Chinese, two white men and a negro.
When the food supply ran low they begged the tall sailorman who owned the boat to carry out his promise and land them. He chased them to their quarters. One night a little more than a week ago he took the schooner's only small boat and abandoned the Mary Beatrice and its passengers. After several days of waiting the Chinese, impelled by the pangs of hunger, turned the schooner toward land.
The mystery of the seven missing was not fully explained. The Chinese spokesman, replying to questions about them, pointed out the side. He wouldn't say whether they jumped, fell or were thrown.
ARGUMENTS ENDED IN BUILDING SUPPLY CASE
(BY A. P. DAY WIRE)
SAN FRANCISCO, June 13.—At the conclusion of arguments which consumed three days, Federal Judge M. T. Doody today took under advisement the government's application for an injunction to restrain fifty-two San Francisco building material dealers from further activities in an asserted combination to violate the Sherman Anti-Trust Act. Briefs are to be submitted and a decision is not expected for a few weeks.

(BY CABLE-EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
(Copyright, 1932, Public Ledger.)

TOKIO, June 13.—The temperance movement is spreading rapidly among the young men of Japan, according to a writer in the Chugai Shogyo, one of Tokyo's leading newspapers. The number of temperance associations now actively working in the country is 236, with a total membership of 117,982, of whom 49,000 are residents of Tokyo while the rest are divided among provincial cities. Four prefectures, Yamagata, Tokushima, Miyazaki and Chiba, are the only ones in which registered associations do not exist.

Last year, according to the statistics of those associations, 15,000 yen was spent on dissemination of temperance propaganda, and the general tone of the reports is favorable and optimistic. The social bureau of the Department of Home Affairs is lending constant assistance. It is said, and the workers are hopeful of the future.

TAKES DIFFERENT VIEW

The Christian World, a religious publication in the Japanese capital, however, takes a different view, and in its current issue it deplores the present state of "drunken delirium" in Japan. That prominent magazine's strongest argument for prohibition is based on the necessity for competition with the United States, a line of thought which it supports in the following words:

"But what are the actual conditions in Japan? There are few Japanese who are not suffering from alcohol poisoning and even in the sacred precinct of the lower house of the Diet it is possible to see men distinctly under the influence of liquor. Even among the members of the upper house this sort of conduct on the part of the members of the lower house is not regarded as anything out of the way and these also act no differently in their private life. And though the country at large is a drop of alcohol with their blood, the evil of alcoholism, no one seems the least concerned."

AMERICA LAUDED

"Just think for a moment of the situation. While the Americans are resolving not to mingle a drop of alcohol with their blood and by this means are endeavoring to improve the moral tone of their people, the country that looks upon them as possessing enemies is paying no attention whatever to this great question. Over against their awakening, they place our lack of earnestness. Think of the situation after twenty or thirty years. What will be the result?"

CHARGE OF AUTO THEFT IN CALIFORNIA AGAINST GLOBE-TROTTER

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 13.—Carl Jean Drossner, son of a wealthy San Francisco family and globe-trotting adventurer, is held in Seville, Spain, for San Francisco Federal authorities, stated a cable received today by the local bureau of the Department of Justice. The specific charge against him is the theft of an automobile in San Jose, April 6, 1931.

The specific charge against him is the theft of an automobile in San Jose, April 6, 1931.

Drossner was a Foreign Legionnaire from 1915 to 1919 and attained a captaincy in the French Army. Returning to San Francisco after his discharge because of wounds, he was active in the interests of Liberty loan drives.

His subsequent career, government files disclose, has gained for him brief sojourns in jails in Mexico, Buenos Aires, Paris and Seville. The records recite that he disappeared from Mexico simultaneously with funds advanced to him by the Mexican government for the purpose of organizing an aviation corps; that in Buenos Aires he became the husband of a wealthy French girl and later shot her and one of her admirers, neither of whom he ever married, and that he later circulated worthless checks in Paris.

In the San Jose automobile-theft episode he is asserted to have had as accomplices Charles Colletta and Dominio Benigo. The latter, government data state, has since been executed in Italy for a murder.

Drossner will be brought back here for trial on the charge involving the automobile.

Necklace Found in Gutter Property of Wealthy Woman

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

NEW YORK, June 13.—A string of "dirty beads" found a few days ago lying in the gutter in front of the Biltmore Hotel, picked up by a passer-by and then tossed to John Hussey, doorman of that place, as a "bum necklace," justified Hussey's faith in them when today he received half of a $500 reward for their return to their owner.

The string proved to be a $10,000 pearl necklace, lost by a woman guest. The other half of the reward went to Hussey's friend, Joe Mulligan, of the hotel's valetage department. He happened along just when Hussey was about to "chuck" the pearls away. Hussey returned the pearls to a Fifth avenue jeweler, advertising for the owner, whose name was withheld.

BARROWS TO UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO

Understanding is That He Will Be Called Away From California School

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

CHICAGO, June 13.—David Prescott Barrows, a former resident of Chicago, and president of the University of California, will, barring unforeseen difficulty, become president of the University of Chicago. That was the understanding today on the Midway among those who know.

At a private dinner recently a prominent professor of the University of Chicago, and one closely associated with the board of directors, and knowing university politics, stated that David Rowland Angell, head of Yale, would not return to head the school, where he was dean of the faculty for many years, as was expected, but that it "looked as if Barrows of California would be the next president."

Dr. Barrows is an educator of note. He received his degree of doctor of philosophy in anthropology from the University of Chicago in 1917. He holds a medical and bachelor's degrees he received from Pomona College, California, and his master's degree at the University of California, where in institution he became president in 1912.

He is well known as an authority on the Philippines and has served the government in several capacities in the islands.

In 1906 he was City Superintendent of Schools of Manila, later becoming Director of Education of the Philippines. In 1910 he returned to the University of California as professor of education, became dean of the graduate school, and served as dean of the faculty until 1913, when he became president.

Dr. Barrows has written several authoritative books on the Philippines. In addition to his attainments as an educator he has served in the United States Army.

His rank was that of a lieutenant-colonel in the cavalry. He saw active duty in the Philippine Islands and Siberia from 1917 to 1919.

Premature Publication Opens New Controversy

British Accuse Krassin With Breaking Silence

English Postal Employees Blamed by Russian

(BY CABLE-EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
(Copyright, 1932, Public Ledger.)

LONDON, June 13.—Publication by the Daily Herald, the London Laborite newspaper, of an asserted summary of Great Britain's last memorandum to Russia, has provoked an amusing side-show to relieve the tedium of the protracted Anglo-Russian trading agreement negotiations.

The most piquant stage was reached when the soviet representative in London, Leonid Krassin, authorized a statement which, by inference, calls the inaccuracy of the British postal authorities into question.

The trouble is that, notwithstanding an agreement of the two governments that no news should be given to the public concerning the negotiations, a leak occurred by which the labor paper benefited. Such loud protests were made by the newspapers that the Foreign Office openly charged the soviet representative with breaking the hush-hush pledge.

Whereupon M. Krassin stated he could not accept the responsibility and pointed out that he had to have the memorandum telegraphed without being coded, leaving the inference that the leak must be that among British postal employees.

Thus, while Great Britain and Russia are again haggling over Bolshevik propaganda in Asia, the soviet is playing a propaganda game in the British capital under the nose of the Foreign Office.

Meanwhile the paramount question of continuance or the abrogation of the trading agreement again is up in the air. The ill-concealed anxiety of both countries to patch things up without a break in commercial relations, however, still encourages the belief that a mutually agreeable formula will be contrived.

The London propaganda organization of the soviet government has just been reinforced by the return of M. Wise, a former British Civil Service official, now an executive of the great Russian semi-official trading corporation. After a long stay in Russia, Wise is assuring British traders that Russia has turned the economic corner, and paints a rosy picture of Russian productivity and the opportunities awaiting British traders.

ASTOR HEIR WINS IN DIVORCE FIGHT

DESCENDANT OF NEW YORK'S SOCIAL DICTATOR FREED; GRANTED DECREE

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
WHITE PLAINS, June 13.—Former District Attorney Lee Parsons Davis, West Chester county, today admitted that Supreme Court Justice Albert F. Seeger had signed an interlocutory decree of divorce in favor of William Astor Knoxton, grandson of the late William Astor. Davis added that Mrs. Helen Fargo Squires Drayton's counter-charge against her husband had been dismissed by Justice Seeger.

Mrs. Drayton is now in London. John M. Russell of New York applied for a divorce from her in the hearing before Judge Seeger at Newburgh to permit her to escape publicly. Efforts today to secure a divorce from her husband were talked by the attorneys, who stated that the evidence had been ordered sealed.

Davis, who was attorney for Drayton in the action, said today the decree is dated June 1.

Drayton's grandmother, Mrs. William Astor Knoxton, was the social dictator of the "400" listed by her faithful attendant, Ward McAllister, as the only persons socially worth while in another New York generation.

The divorce adds one more to a series of such actions in the Drayton family and its branches which have kept them in public view.

Justice Seeger gave to Drayton the custody of his son John, leaving with the wife Margaret Livingston, 7 years of age. Mrs. Drayton is the daughter of the late Herbert Squires, at one time Minister to Panama and Colombia. They were married at St. Matthews Church, Bedford Hills, N. Y., November 6, 1912, and the list of wedding guests read like a condensation of the social register.

WRIGHT'S PART IN SEATTLE PURCHASE EXPLAINED BY NEW OWNERS

STATEMENTS GIVE ALL DETAILS OF PURCHASE

Owners of Seattle Club Swing With Little Assistance and Now Are Independent

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS
Intimations and insinuations that William Wright, owner of the Seattle baseball club, had sold or does own stock in the Seattle baseball club, or any other interest therein, were denied and apparently refuted yesterday, when Charles Lockhard and Wade (Red) Wright, his brother, placed their cards on the table, just as several weeks before they had asked permission to place them before the directors of the Pacific Coast League.

McCarthy to Probe Case Deep

The Pacific Coast League president, William H. McCarthy, arrived here Wednesday morning in company with Harry I. Stanford, attorney for the league. They are staying at the Los Angeles Athletic Club. Both attended the Portland-Vernon game at Washington Park in the afternoon and were the guests of Eddie Maher. Mr. McCarthy, when seen at the L.A.A.C. after the ball game and shown Wade Kilmer's statement sent Kilmer's holdings in the Seattle club, had the following to say:

"For this defense of Wright, Lockhard and Kilmer, very well and good. Most men charged with an offense are not given the length of time nor do they require the length of time that it has taken to prepare and produce these documents. However, we shall go into the matter further, and when these statements are supported under oath with the accompanying corroborative evidence that will be adduced, then the public may be persuaded to swallow this peppermint pill. Frankly, and without going into the matter very carefully, having had no opportunity to analyze the statements, I cannot, nor do I believe that the public in general nor the baseball public in particular, will either."

"This explanation by no means ends the matter. Will anybody who wishes to swallow the story that Wright loaned anybody $125,000 for fifteen days without security just taken the trouble to contrast this statement with the one he previously issued to the Associated Press? I will be here at least until Sunday, and may be here for a month or so. I am going through with this case to the end and will not leave until everybody connected with these transactions is put under oath, including Mr. Wright."

SOUTH'S NEWEST SPEED DEMON

This is Yale Martz, undefeated quarter-mile champion of the University of Southern California, who will compete tomorrow and Saturday in the National Intercollegiate track and field championships at Stagg Field, Chicago. Although Martz undoubtedly is at his best in the 440 he is an exceptionally fast sprinter and he will run the 100 and 220-yard dashes at Chicago as Coach Cromwell is anxious to develop his speed and not wear him down by running him in the quarter. Trojan rooters expect him to do particularly well in the furlong as he should do better than 22 seconds in this event. [Photo by Don Gillum.]

PROSPECTS FOR DAGGS ARE BRIGHT

Pomona Athlete is Strong Contender in Both Hurdle Events at Chicago

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
CHICAGO, June 13.—Charley Daggs of Pomona College, a member of the American Olympic team in 1920, has entered the national collegiate track and field meet, which will open at Stagg Field Friday, and is expected to be one of the strongest of the contenders in both of the hurdle events. Word that Daggs is on his way and will arrive tomorrow has been received by University of Chicago officials.

Daggs is one of the greatest hurdlers produced on the Coast in recent years and has been showing brilliant form during the past few months. Although he is an able performer in both the hurdle events he has shown to slightly better advantage over the high barriers.

In the 120-yard event he will compete with two of the greatest hurdlers in the conference, De Hart Hubbard, the Wolverine star, and Johnson of Illinois, the winner of the much disputed race at Ann Arbor several weeks ago. He is also expected to place in the low hurdles, although it looks as though Charlie Brookline, the great Hawkeye performer, would be able to annex this event.

Charley Paddock will be at the meet Saturday and will probably run an exhibition race, according to his father, who was in town today. The athlete's father was en route to New York to meet his son, who will arrive from Europe Friday.

"Before he left for Europe, it was Charley's intention to return to this country in time to get in shape for the national college games," the senior Paddock said.

YANK GOLF HOPES IN FINAL GO

American Players Spend a Quiet Day in Practice Over Tough Course

(BY DON SKENE)
(BY CABLE-EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
TROON, June 13.—Crippled, but confident the American golf envoys spent their last day before the British open golf championship practicing the shots which may keep an American on the throne occupied by King Hagen for the past year. The unexpected loss of such golfing giants as Sarason and Barnes in the qualifying rounds was a hard blow, but two of the remaining Americans are ready to make a desperate fight against the eighty-two other seekers for the silver cup which marks the world championship.

MacDonald Smith and Walter Hagen seem to be the American bets. Modest Mac, who led the Americans in the qualifying round, looked fine in practice today, showing a quiet confidence.

Gibbons Goes Through Eight Rough Rounds

(BY A. F. NIGHT WIRE)
SHELBY (Mont.) June 13. Chasing coppers over Montana buttes and prairies was part of Tommy Gibbons' training regime today for his Dempsey battle July 4. The challenger brought back four furry denizens of the wilds as a memento of his trip and also picked off one jack rabbit and a snake on the hunting expedition.

For the first time in her life, Mrs. Gibbons saw her husband in a workout this afternoon. Seated against the stockade, which surrounds the training camp, she watched Tommy pummel four sparring partners in eight grueling rounds. Meanwhile, little Tom and Jack, their two youngsters, climbed around the edge of the arena and eagerly watched their daddy work.

Gibbons, breathing easily and displaying more agility in ducking, dodging and sidestepping than he has at any time heretofore, gave his partner a worrisome afternoon. Twice Gibbons apologized when he jolted them with such

CHICAGO, June 13.—"Bear" reports from Great Falls to the effect that Jack Dempsey is out of condition have shortened the odds on the July 4 battle in local betting circles.

One commissioner tried to place a wager today on Gibbons first at 1 to 4, but 1 to 3 was the best he could get. The odds have been as high as 1 to 7 with Dempsey as the favorite. Reports that Dempsey was knocked out by a sparring partner and the closing of the doors of the champion's training quarters to newspapermen are taken with a grain of salt by Chicago bettors, however.

BALL PLAYERS WILL BE THEATER GUESTS

Members of the Vernon and the Portland baseball clubs have been invited to the Hillstreet Theater tonight as guests of Louis "Burr" Durham, champion of England, may be matched with Mickey Walker for a fight here September 4 with the welterweight championship of the world at stake. Wells took the decision over Simonich in a fifteen-round bout.

JONES WINS CULVER CUP AT CALIFORNIA

R. V. Jones, shooting 137-24-113 won the Harry Culver trophy at the California Country Club. Jones shot a good score in the first half of the affair and in the last half came back strong clinching the cup without much trouble.

COCHET IS DEFEATED

(BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS)
PARIS, June 13.—In the play in the French hard-court tennis championship tournament today, M. Blanchy won from Henri Cochet, the titleholder and former world champion, in the semifinal round. The score was 6-4, 6-2, 6-1.

STRANGE WILL CONTEST TANGLED BY PARROTS

Birds Provided for Are Now Dead; Infantry Battling June Bugs on Governor's Island

BY RAYMOND G. CARROLL
(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
(Copyright, 1923, Public Ledger.)

NEW YORK, June 13.—Having once been owned by a parrot of rare intelligence we became duly excited recently at this clause in the will of George H. Hart, theatrical lawyer: "I give and bequeath my two parrots to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, with the request that they shall never be separated and that they shall be treated tenderly and in a manner worthy of the aims and pretensions of the society." A trust fund of $500 was named for the maintenance of the birds.

"Never heard of them," said an official at that society.

Now the last testament of the said Hart is being contested by relatives in the courts, and their counsel argued only yesterday that the will attempted illegally to care for the parrots and was void because it sought to care for five relatives in one trust fund. The contention was made that a single trust fund could not be drawn legally in favor of more than two persons, and Hart had provided that when the parrots died their $500 was to be divided among five relatives.

BIRDS DEAD

Inasmuch as the Surrogate's Court had set aside the bequest to the parrots, which was confirmed yesterday by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, the fate of the birds on the court record apparently hung in the balance.

"You have wasted your time," said an official at the United States Trust Company, executor of the Hart will, which disposed of an estate valued at about $15,000. "Why? Because the blooming birds both died before Hart did, and he died two years ago in July."

No time was really wasted, the inquiry established the fact of the early death of the parrots, and the persistence of the courts of law.

A new peace-time service has been discovered for the Army on Governor's Island, the low filled-in island (originally sixty-five acres, but enlarged to 120 acres) that with Liberty or Bedloe's Island shares in isolation the waters of the upper bay. It is the pursuit of the June bug, the grass-eating beetle.

The island is important as having the headquarters of Maj.-Gen. Robert L. Bullard, commander of the Second Corps area of the United States Army. Secondly, it is the billet of the famous fighting Sixteenth Infantry of the First Division.

FIGHT BUGS

Through May the island wrapped itself in the splendor of a magnificent green carpet, which in the last few days has been billowing with great holes, the havoc wrought by the destructive beetle. For the time being our soldiers have turned horticulturists, and the battle for the extermination of the June-bug enemy is now fiercely on.

Tragic circumstances of a jockey who died in the saddle winning his first race had a sad parallel in the death in Paris of a New York ship news reporter making his first trip abroad after more than a quarter of a century spent boarding ships and interviewing travelers.

"Judge" Harold I. Smith, the ship news reporter in question, earned his title serving as a justice of the peace in New Jersey. From the time he first went down the bay on a revenue cutter to climb the incoming ships he had planned to make a visit to London and Paris, but it was not until last month that the way opened—his first and his last voyage.

Half-page and quarter-page advertisements of various New York evening papers, proudly offering various parts of the carcass of the Globe as theirs, are the strangely funny aftermath of the purchase for $2,000,000 of the ship by Mr. Frank A. Munsey, owner of the Sun and Telegram and Herald.

"We have its heart," says one paper, listing its men taken from the Globe. "Read us, for we have its liver," announces another paper, setting forth what it has taken on of the Globe men. "Attention this way—we have acquired its gastric juices," proclaims a third, naming its hirings from the Munsey publication.

However, the mad rush to hire Globe men was only for the "by-line men," those known to the paper's readers through their advertised names. The great majority of the suppressed paper's writers are still looking for jobs. What the rival evening papers sought was to capture former Globe readers through hiring former Globe men—the quarry being something less than 500,000 readers. Their next circulation reports will show how successful they have been.

VETERAN ELK

Charles C. Foster, who knows more about Elks than ever Shackleton, today stirred old memories along Broadway today by talking of three living Elks—Charles F. Evans, Harry J. Armstrong and John Russell—each famed in theatrical and recent guests about the handsome clubhouse of the Elks on West Forty-third street.

When Evans joined the Elks there were two lodges, one in New York and the other in Philadelphia. Now there are nearly 1500 lodges and the membership of the brotherhood is close to 1,000,000. Armstrong and Russell also are veteran Elks.

Half a century ago Evans was a member of the variety team of Niles and Evans, presenting a sketch which called "The Book Agent." Niles died and Evans met the late Charles H. Hoyt, who elaborated the sketch into a "Parlor Match," one of the earliest of the famous Hoyt farces, in which the late Anna Held was introduced to America.

Evans formed a partnership with the late William (Old) Hoyt, the first variety actor to wear a full natural beard, and thus came into existence the renowned team of Evans and Hoyt. Evans is now playing the role of the judge in "Lightnin'" and has been reengaged for next season.

OLD VARIETY ACTORS

Armstrong was a member of the famous J. H. Haverly minstrel and, when singing and dancing at the Bowery theaters, was known as the "Apollo Belvedere of Broadway." He is one of the four surviving Jolly Corks, the organization which led to the formation of the Elks.

Russell, with his brother Jim, made the variety team of Russell Brothers, presenting the nation-wide skit, "The Irish Servant Girl." Tony Pastor suggested the act, but that the Russells had been doing a black-and-white variety act. John Russell now lives in a suburb of Los Angeles and came East to sell his old home here.

NATIONAL RAIL LINE SLAMMED

Officials Advise Austria to Abandon Ownership by Government

(BY CABLE-EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
BUDAPEST, June 13.—Gov. ernment ownership of railways suffered a slam today when William Wallace Atterbury, vice-president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, Edward Westworth Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railroad and Sir George Brown, European director of the Canadian Pacific Railroad, advised the Hungarian government to change the State ownership of lines to private corporations. The railway magnates conferred separately with the Hungarian Premier Count Bethlen, Finance Minister Csalay and Minister of Communications Walko.

Mr. Atterbury and Mr. Beatty also advised the Austrian government to abandon State ownership and operation of railways if they wished to make them pay.

In both Hungary and Austria the best opinion is that the sole solution to the transport problem is an Anglo-American trust for the operation of railways.

Oil Commission Warns Petition Will Be Ignored

BY JOHN CORRYN
(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

MEXICO CITY, June 13.—If the oil men send a petition to the international commission, as the press asserts, it will, said Commissioner Charles B. Warren today, be returned to them unanswered and unconsidered. The commissioners are determined to interfere in the settlement of questions in dispute in the two governments. The commission today continued its active discussion and held over questions in dispute, several of which were referred to President Obregon for a solution.

The government is preparing a trip to Middle and Western Mexico for the American commissioners, so the latter may see new features of the country.

LATE FROST KILLS NEVADA VEGETABLE

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)

RENO, June 13.—The coldest June night in thirty-one years and the latest killing frost ever recorded in Weather Bureau history in Nevada killed garden truck, damaged grain fields and thinned out crops in general last night. The thermometer registered 2 degrees below freezing at 5 o'clock this morning.

Meteorologist Alps, in charge of the United States Weather Bureau for Nevada, says he cannot give an estimate of crop damage in money. His noon report, he said, showed that all tender vegetation had been killed.

RELOCACION DE MAIN POWER LINE SOUGHT

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

WASHINGTON, June 13.—In an application before the Federal Water Power Commission, the Southern Sierra Power Company has decided to relocate a section, ten miles long, of its main transmission line leading to Imperial Valley, Cal., so as to place the line near a new State highway in Riverside county, Cal. The purpose being to make the line more accessible and thus reduce operating costs. The company has applied for a license from the commission authorizing this change of right of way.

L. B. Perry has applied for a preliminary permit for a power project on Miller Creek, in Mono county, Cal. He operates a ranch, which uses the entire flow of this stream. Some time ago a cloud-burst washed debris into the canyon and so destroyed the channel as practically to cut off his water supply. Mr. Perry now proposes to divert the water through a pipe line at a point above the affected section of the creek so as to obtain the undiminished flow of the stream, and incidentally develop approximately 1500 horsepower to be used for mining, pumping and lighting purposes.

Acusados de Motín en Alta Mar

Patrick Luba, de 21 años de edad, y Charles Hanley, de 15, fueron traídos con grilletes hasta el buque-cisterna británico "O. Harrison Smith," y entregados ayer a las autoridades policíacas del puerto. Se le acusa de haber intentado fomentar un motín en alta mar.

Dice que los mencionados individuos son delegados de los I.W.O.V., y se los puso presos en el puerto por el supuesto delito de sindicalismo criminal. Se fueron puestos los grilletes poco después de que el barco-cisterna había cruzado el canal de Panamá, pues los oficiales de a bordo declararon que estos sospechosos habían estado haciendo circular impresos I.W.O.V. entre los marineros. Luego que el navío hubo salido del canal, dicen los oficiales que los individuos en cuestión sepearon al mardomingo del buque. Después de esto, negaron a trabajar, e intentaron hacer estallar un motín a bordo. Dice que los jóvenes son acusados en la costa del Pacífico como organizadores de los Obreros Industriales del Mundo. El buque en que corrieron los sucesos venía desde Newport News.

Fue hecha esta confesión en la audiencia de Frank Sanceri, uno de los acusados. Por no estar en condiciones físicas para dejar su cama, fue tomada la declaración de la Sra. # WHAT MAKES FOR CONTINUED PROSPERITY

WE HEAR much about the "business cycle," and have seen much of it in the last three years. We ought to learn by experience, but do we?

All the modern countries have alternating periods of prosperity and depression, more or less pronounced. The fundamental reason for these fluctuations is that we have developed a highly specialized society. Instead of each doing everything for himself, as in primitive times, we have all become specialists, each doing some one thing, and making exchanges with each other. It is a highly effective system when it is all in balance and running smoothly, but like any other complicated machine it is more likely to get out of order than a simple machine.

When The City Bank—now The National City Bank of New York—was established in 1812, ninety per cent of the population of this country got at least part of their living by tilling the soil. We cannot go back to that simple state of society or the simple habits of that time. The present population of this country could not be supported in the state of comfort to which it is accustomed without specialized industry and the present machine equipment. But it means a great interdependent organization.

Moreover, it is a great voluntary organization. Everybody is expected to find his own place in it. There is no overhead authority to tell anyone what work he shall do, or what he shall receive for it, or what he shall do with his pay when he gets it. He may save it, or he may spend it and run into debt besides, if he can get anybody to trust him. In short, we live under a regime of liberty. The system operates by general cooperation. There is some confusion, some jostling, some friction, and more or less working at cross purposes. No wonder. But, on the whole, it works remarkably well.

A period of prosperity has in it the elements of its own undoing. It is a familiar observation that "some people cannot stand prosperity." A great many people cannot, unless

Some Suggested Means for the Establishment of Reserve Resources

[1] For the individual who is taking first steps in providing reserve resources and would regularly set aside moderate savings, the facilities of first class local savings banks and the special savings departments of high grade local national and state banks and trust companies are available.

[2] For manufacturing and commercial firms and corporations, who should realize that the carriage of a substantial deposit account establishes a basis for future credit at the bank and that deposits therefore constitute a reserve against time of need, strong local banking institutions ordinarily satisfy every requirement. The only account of this character that is sought by our affiliate, The National City Bank of New York, is that which can advantageously make use of New York or foreign banking service or whose requirements are, or in time of stress might be, in excess of its local bank's limitations.

[3] For individuals or corporations who in large or small volume would establish their reserve resources in the purchase of investment securities, this community has responsible investment houses.

The National City Company, with its expert organization and its more than fifty United States offices,—one of which is located in this City,—presents the most comprehensive development of national and international investment service. Its recommendations are available to all.

they have had experience also with adversity, and every period of prosperity finds a lot of people who have not been seasoned in both experiences.

Prosperity tends to make people easy-going in management, loose in expenditures, careless about saving. They do not see why things will not always run along in the same smooth way. The instinct of caution is weakened,—the impulse to expansion, to spread out and cut a wider swath, to spend more money and live up close to the income, develops.

In business a period of prosperity encourages men to overreach themselves. They go deeply into debt because prices are rising, and the buying on credit causes prices to rise still farther. The longer the boom continues the more venturesome people become and the narrower the margins become, until the whole price structure becomes topheavy and comes down with a crash.

Such periods of rising and falling prices disturb the regular order of business. All prices and wages do not rise and fall together, the regular flow of trade is interrupted, the equilibrium upon which prosperity depends is disturbed.

Much is said about the desirability of stabilizing business. It would be a fine thing to stabilize business, but you will have to stabilize the buying and borrowing of about 100,000,000 people, for it is what the great body of the people do in the management of their own affairs that makes the state of business.

If we are ever to stabilize business, everybody must help to do it. We say of the banking situation that its strength is in its reserves, and that is true of the business situation generally. In boom times people try to do too much business for their capital; they get too heavily in debt for their resources; if anything goes wrong they have no strength in reserve; and this situation becomes so general that when one business house goes down, another does, and another, like a row of bricks. If one industry is affected and discharges employees, consumption is curtailed and causes more unemployment. And so the circle of distress is widened, largely for lack of reserve resources.

Every business house, community, every family, able at such a time to stand up in its own strength, meet its obligations, and go on as usual, instead of toppling over on someone else, helps to stem the demoralization. They are the houses and the people who give stability to the industrial situation. And so the way to stabilize industry and do away with crises and depressions is for everybody to make himself independent by having something in reserve. The business situation is what the buying ability of the millions makes it.

Don't spend quite so much when you are making it; put away something against the need for it. Even in very early and simple times the maxim was current that it was well to lay something by for the "rainy day." If everybody would provide against hard times there would be no hard times. "If everyone would sweep in front of his own door, the whole world would be clean."

Money in the Bank or money invested in sound Bonds and other securities, representing resources in reserve, acts as a protection not only to dependent ones in times of emergency, but also as a contribution to the protection of the community against the spread of depression.

These are prosperous times! There is work for everybody and good pay. Now is the time to establish reserves!

COUNTY ATTORNEY BELIEVES
DEPENDENTS SHOULD BE

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
OMAHA, June 13.—County Attorney Harold Mattoon, at Beatrice, states that he is going to ask the county board to find some employment for inmates of the County Jail. "I plan to see that they are put to some work where they can earn money and aid in the support of their dependents," he asserted.

Word from Broken Bow says a great deal of damage has been done by recent heavy rains and hail storms in the western part of the county during the last three days. Many of the wheat fields are bare and the gardens have been pounded into the ground. This is particularly true in the vicinity of Merna and Anselmo.

There are 998 patients at the State Hospital for the Insane at Lincoln today, the largest number the institution has ever held, according to the Board of Control. A long list of patients is waiting to get in.

Weather predictions are received in this country by 8,445,000 persons either by telephone or radio. A long list of places are advised by mail.

LUMBER TRUST TRIAL STARTED

Chicago Dealers and Officials of Unions Accused

Millwork of Nonunion Plants
Shut Out, Charged

Builders and Rent-Payers
Hit, Says Government

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
CHICAGO, June 13.—The fifty-six defendants accused of violating the Sherman antitrust law by erecting an "invisible wall" about Chicago in 1918 that kept out all millwork made in nonunion shops outside the city went on trial today before a jury in Federal Judge Cliffe's court.

Officials and members of the Lumbermen's Association of Chicago, the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America and the Carpenter Contractors' Association, together with various labor-union officials, are accused in the conspiracy charge.

Thomas J. Howe, special assistant district attorney, in his opening address to the jury, outlined the case the government hopes to prove against the fifty-six defendants. He declared that the three organizations, through a labor trades committee, composed of Harry Morris, E. Reynolds and George P. Hays, threw up the "invisible wall" that closed the Chicago market to all nonunion shops outside Chicago in 1918. Minutes of the committee's meetings, records of the accused organizations and various witnesses will be introduced to prove the charge, Attorney Howe asserted.

BUILDERS TAKED
With outside competition thus barred, it is charged, Chicago manufacturers were enabled to increase sales and door prices to a point where it cost the builders and rent-payers of the city an additional $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 annually.

"We will show that prior to 1918 only prison-made millwork was not allowed to be sold in Chicago," the attorney said, "but that after these defendants entered into their conspiracy all nonunion work was included."

STRIKES ORDERED
Prior to 1918 only three millwork plants in Chicago had the capacity to furnish all the millwork ordered from them. Fifty to sixty of the remaining mill owners had to go outside the city for their purchases. Then in 1918 these outside purchases were shut off. When some of the forbidden material did reach the city the combine saw to it that strikes occurred on buildings where it was used.

"For a time the interstate trade in millwork between Chicago, Wisconsin and Iowa came to a standstill. Then the combine in order to meet the demand for millwork here, got the Hardwood Products Company of Wisconsin to unisonize its mills so that its products could be sold here. As a result of the conspiracy, which was broken up when the government began its investigation, the building boom in Chicago at that time was hindered and builders suffered financially."

BRANDS TRADITION CONSERVATION FOE

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)
CHICAGO, June 13.—Tradition in the use of lumber constitutes one of the greatest foes of conservation, John W. McClure, president of the National Hardwood Lumber Association, declared in a report prepared for presentation today at the opening session of the annual convention. He referred to the traditional practice of domestic manufacturers in discarding "defectives" in American lumber and importing foreign wood with similar natural defects for its beauty. Such action, he said, results in complete waste.

TWO UNDER ARREST IN CARDINAL'S MURDER

(BY CARLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
SARAGOSSA (Spain) June 13.—Two workmen were arrested here today on suspicion that they were implicated in the recent assassination here of Cardinal Boldevilla, archbishop of Saragossa. The arrested men, a mechanic and a chauffeur, were captured.

An attempt to lynch the prisoners was frustrated. The police took several revolvers from a quantity of syndicalist documents from the suspects.

FRENCH TURN BUDGET DEFICIT INTO SURPLUS

(BY CARLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
PARIS, June 13.—The French budget deficit of $750,000,000 francs is turned into a surplus of nearly 900,000,000 francs and cited as comparing favorably with the American and British budgets. In the final report of the Senate's Finance Commission. The budget has been shuttled between the various commissions of the Chamber and Senate since last October. The receipts now are estimated at 23,051,000,000 francs and the expenses at 22,154,000,000 francs.

NEWBERRY SCOFFS AT FORD CANDIDACY

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)
SAN FRANCISCO, June 13.—Truman H. Newberry, who defeated Henry Ford for the Michigan Senate seat but resigned later after a fight involving charges of election fraud, arrived today from the Orient and scoffed at the Ford Presidential boom, characterizing it as "publicity stunt to keep Ford's name before the public." William O. McAdoo, another visitor here today, declined to comment on political questions.

OPEN CAMP IN HIGH SIERRAS

Pack Train, Stars, Writers, in Picturesque Setting

Click of Camera to Startle
Deer in the Wilds

Snowclad Peaks Background
for Wister Classic

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
LOVE PINE, June 13 (With the Forman-Schulberg Expedition.) Rip Van Winkle, arising from his long nap in the Catalina, did not rub his eyes over a stranger sight than was presented to the inhabitants of this little mountain hamlet today when a long cavalcade of men and women wended their way through the streets to "see in" the deepest recesses of the mountains to establish a great motion picture camp.

Stars, director, writers and cowpunchers were mounted on horses and mules, together with tons of mysterious equipment to be used in filming Tom Forman's production of "The Virginian."

MOUNTAIN SETTING
A picturesque mountain setting, with a towering background of snow-clad peaks that would have thrilled the heart of Owen Wister, has been selected for all of the exteriors of the picture. This, declared to be the last spot where cattle and cattlemen can be found in the identical surroundings that were theirs more than a quarter of a century ago, has been plotted out as the site of a camp that will be the headquarters of the picture expedition for the next month or six weeks.

Since the trails are too narrow to permit the passage of the lightest horse-drawn vehicle, every article of construction for the two ranch houses that must be erected far above the snow level is being packed in on mules just as the original cowpunchers that found grazing ground here thirty-five years ago packed in. While the remainder of the world has been rolling on this out-of-the-way mountain refuge seems to have been remaining in its almost primitive state—awaiting the coming of the picture camera.

FORMAN AT HEAD
At the head of the pack train was Director Forman, the one-time Texas cowpuncher, who will remain in the Wister romance. With him was Kenneth Harlan, who will enact the role of the hero, and Florence Vidor, who will be seen as the pretty little school teacher of the picture. Miss Vidor and Mrs. Louis D. Lighton, who, with her husband, is preparing the screen version of the story to be filmed, are the only two women in the party. Incidentally, they are among the few women who ever have attempted to make a long stay as far up in the High Sierras as this camp will be established.

Other members of the cast who were immediately recognized—for picture faces are recognized in the most remote spot of the mountains—were the school teacher of Hatton, Pat O'Malley and Edward Brady. All carried rifles as they hope to participate in hunting trips into the game-infested regions in which they will work.

The camp, on which construction work already has been started, will be situated slightly under 10,000 feet above the sea level. Local guides and "trail breakers," who have joined the expedition say that deer never was more abundant than this year—a fact that has aroused the interest of every member of the party, from Director Forman down to the lowest extra.

WOMAN TO KNOW FATE SOON IN MURDER CASE

SUSPECT IS CHARGED WITH SLAYING HUSBAND AT

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)
OROVILLE, June 13.—Witnesses here today told in Superior Court of circumstances in connection with the shooting at Briggs, March 17, last, of Robert Murdock for whose death his wife, Mrs. Mae Murdock, a middle-aged, gray-haired woman, is being tried on the charge of murder. Murdock died several days after he was shot.

Mrs. Murdock, who lived near Briggs, told of the arrival at their home about three minutes after they heard shots of Murdock, who had blood on his chin and right cheek, and who, it was testified, said "she shot me just as I was going off the porch."

Mrs. Annie Hettigerm, nurse at a local hospital to which Murdock was taken, testified that Murdock "told me his wife shot him." Dist. Atty. William E. Rothe took the witness stand and was questioned by Attorney J. Oscar Goldstein as to the facts of the statements made by Murdock after he had been taken to the hospital. Mrs. Murdock's demeanor was calm as she sat in court holding a Bible.

The prosecution rested its case before noon and Mrs. Mary A. Holmes, for the defense, testified that Mrs. Murdock, on the day before Murdock was shot, had made her will, bequeathing most of her property to her son, Bruce. The will, said Mrs. Holmes, contained a "curse on the whole Murdock family."

Mrs. Holmes testified that Mrs. Murdock had made use of a board of device asserted to place her in communication with the spirits of the dead.

It was believed that the defense might rest late today and that the case might go to the jury tonight.

LIQUOR DEALING FOUND TO BE TROUBLESOME

(BY A. P. DAY WIRE.)
EUREKA, June 13.—Druggists of the State no longer desire to deal in alcoholic liquors on account of the red tape involved. J. J. Freeman, president, said at the opening here today of the California Pharmaceutical Association's annual convention. Members, Freeman said, are urging that prescriptions for narcotics should appear on bonded paper similar to that now used for liquors, in order to prevent the use of spurious prescriptions.

SANTA MONICA

SHALL WE BUILD A MONUMENT TO YOU?

Santa Monica is going to build a monument to Senator John P. Jones as a testimony to its gratitude. He is our immortal host to the world. Through years beyond our vision his Palisades Park, which he gave to the city of Santa Monica, will entertain, please, comfort, refresh and inspire numberless thousands of grateful people.

Senator from Nevada for thirty years, yet he made his family home in Santa Monica, visioned it, loved it, founded the city, laid it out with wide streets and public spaces, and, lastly, gave it this ideal park, the wonderful Palisades, towering one hundred and fifty feet above the ocean, which makes this city unique, the jewel of the Crescent Coast.

Retrospection is good for instruction and for gratitude, but what of today? To whom of today shall we build a monument? There are men and women now who have as great opportunity as did Senator Jones---and there is not a man or woman in Los Angeles county who cannot do something for Santa Monica.

If we know what Santa Monica means, love it, realize its place and purpose in the great plan of Los Angeles and the Southwest, then we will each do our part for it.

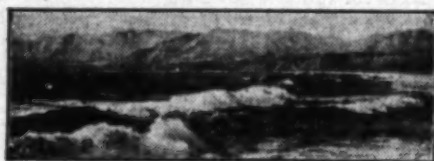

The recreation, refreshment, inspiration, beauty, pleasure and spiritual elevation which the Santa Monica Crescent Coast provides for all the people of the county and its visitors from near and far are not less important than business and industry.

There are hundreds of men in Los Angeles and environs who have retired from business, who have leisure and wealth, and yet are not satisfied to be idle. They want something new, fresh and uplifting in which to use their energy and ability. They have a chance to do great things at Santa Monica, for the glory of Los Angeles, and the joy and pride of its public through years reaching far into the future---even as Senator Jones, citizen of another state, lover of the beautiful, visioner of the big idea, did.

Besides the preservation of the sands and coast line, there are two things that the Santa Monica district needs above everything else---big all-year hotels and a great pleasureboat breakwater. There are plenty of men around Los Angeles who can do all these things, which would make Santa Monica one of the most famous places in the world, give pleasure and uplift to millions of people, and make a monument for themselves. What would be more enjoyable than such accomplishment?

A smile worth while

There's a Reason

why the West Okanogan Valley Irrigation District is famed far and wide. THERE'S A REASON why the $750,000 prior tax lien bonds of this municipal district are being quickly taken far and wide by banks, institutions and by individuals all over the West and in the East, until in less than a week's time less than a quarter of the total amount is left available. The security is there NOW. Experienced successful farmers are there NOW. The water is there NOW, more than they can use and they don't have to pump it up hill. It runs down hill. It runs down both sides of the valley the full length of the district. No reservoirs. No pumps. No burdensome power charges that must be paid before bond interest and bond principal. Just a simple diversion from the river and direct gravity flow. Nature smiled on this wonderful valley of the famous Wenatchee district. Nature smiled—Jim Hill did the rest.

These bonds don't need a "state guarantee." They are a security NOW, not a gamble.

These bonds offer you 6% for ten to thirty-five years, free from Federal Income Tax. They are NON-CALLABLE.

Are you interested? If you are, let us hear from you.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Beginning on Saturday unlisted stocks will be traded in on this exchange. Fifty-four securities will comprise the initial group. The business will be transacted as a part of the regular call under exchange regulations and charges and cleared in the same manner. Trading in the new list will form a part of the daily summary.

Spearshead Gold Mining Company will apply for listing on the Los Angeles Exchange. This stock has been active on the New York curb during the past few days, due, it is said, to heavy accumulation on the part of Eastern mining men. Spearshead is also listed on the San Francisco Exchange.

DAILY MARKET LETTER OF THE NEW YORK COMMERCIAL

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
NEW YORK, June 13.—There was a quiet market for Valencian oranges 1923 and smaller today while 175s and larger ruled unchanged. Sales totaled twenty-nine cars, prices being quoted at a range of $1.47 to $1.93 per box. Navalas continued about firm, eight cars being sold at $1.35 to $1.63 per box. One car of sweets sold at $1.50 to $1.75, and a car of seedlings at $1.55 to $1.70. A shipment of 204 boxes of California grapefruit sold at $1.35 to $1.55 per box.

Florida oranges were firm, with prices ruling about the same as on Tuesday. Sales totaled 4448 boxes and are being quoted at a range of $3 to $7.93 per box. Grapefruit was about 15 to 25 cents lower higher. 2895 boxes selling at $2.35 to $7 per box. One car of Georgia peaches sold at auction at $1.30 to $1.70 and a car of watermelons were sold, one bringing $2.50 and the other $5.

DRIED FRUITS
Trading in the local dried fruit market was of light volume and prices were about the same as a week ago. Distributors continue to limit their orders to immediate needs and there is a general feeling of caution against accumulation.

While the usual run of export business is being handled, the market is mainly for small lots. Foreign buyers are taking advantage of the soft spots in the local market and are picking up the dried fruits of prunes and apricots with some buying of raisins noted. The trade generally is going slow on purchasing futures of independent. The generally tendency appears to be to hold off until the various associations have made commitments.

CANNED FOODS
Reports received from pea packers in Delaware and Maryland indicate that the packing season will be commenced to make pea deliveries on their sales of futures standard early June this year. The deliveries of the No. 3 peas, which are in plentiful supply and the packers will make 100 per cent delivery on their sales.

SUGAR MARKET
Shortly after the opening today, which was at a decline of 1 to 2 points, the sugar futures market broke some 25 to 30 points lower, a wave of liquidation reported for the account of Japanese operators, who were reported selling against holdings of Java.

COFFEE
The coffee market today developed in the coffee futures market when prices were up 5 to 8 points was not surprising in view of the widespread liquidation which had been in evidence the day before. Although there was a partial recovery after the call prices subsequently moved up again, net gains of about 6 to 11 points being recorded. Most active months were posted 10 to 12 points higher at the close of trading. The day's turnover amounted to 45,500 bags, which included switching from July to December at a difference of 123 and 124 points, and July to March at 120 points.

BUTTER, EGGS
Butter showed unexpected weakness at the opening on account of buyers refusing to go ahead on basis of late prices, which they made were too high for speculative purchases. As all sales for spot delivery were at a loss, a decline of 4 cents resulted. Closing bids, however, were made at 23 cents, but no sales were effected. In future, 100 to 120 tubs of score sold July at 23 cents, and 100 tubs extra sold July, 13 cents.

TEA, RICE
The tea trade was generally awaiting the arrival of cables from Colombo and Calcutta, the expectation being that these might throw further light on the general position of the staple. In the meantime, the market was a fair volume of inquiry for fermented tea.

COPPER, ZINC
Most of the copper producers advanced their price to 15-18 cents a pound for electrolytic delivered through the next few months. London cables, standard spot at advancing 10s to 10s 7d and futures 7s 6d to 10s 15d, while electrolytic registered a gain of 10s with spot closing at 47s and futures at 47s 10s.

GASOLINE
The local oil trade reports brisk business in gasoline, with the present volume of orders the heaviest of the year to date. Considerably larger than a year ago and exceeding previous expectations. Large tourist demand is beginning to be noticed in the call from New England. Large refiners are shipping many carloads at a time.

BOND MARKET
The New York Central issue was a center of attention in the bond market, following the announcement of the increase in the dividend rate on the stock from 5 to 7 per cent just before midday. This general run of rail issues met with severe selling around midday which sent prices too low for the late rally to overcome.

CALIFORNIA DRIED FRUIT
NEW YORK, June 13.—(Exclusive dispatch) Market prices of California dried fruit today were about the same as a week ago.

OIL NEWS

By HOWARD C. KEGLEY

By the middle of next week oil operators in Southern California expect to have some general idea as to what conditions are likely to be in July and August. Members of the operators' executive committee, of which A. A. Duberson, Jr. is chairman, expect to hold their weekly meeting this forenoon, but there is no special business to transact. It was said last night that the committee is making a study of pipeline and storage facilities, and hopes to be ready to report some time next week.

HAWKEYE STILL DRILLING
Contrary to reports circulated a few days ago, the Hawkeye well No. 1, being drilled on the Irish lease in the southeastern portion of the Santa Fe Springs field, has not been placed on production. According to the drillers it is down 4265 feet.

ROUNDING OUT FACILITIES
Work has been started by the General Petroleum Corporation to complete pipeline and tank car loading facilities at Signal Hill by the extension of a spur track and tank car loading facilities, on the Union Pacific system.

FAMOUS GAMER ON PUMP
Robinson's Well No. 1 at Long Beach, made famous in 1922 as the Western Star gasser, entered into the second phase of its existence today, when it was placed on the pump by the Petroleum Midway Company.

OIL IN NEW AREA
Prouhet-Troupe Well No. 1 was placed on production at Long Beach yesterday by the Rogers-Edwards Drilling Company, with an initial flow of 3000 barrels a day. The well was drilled to a depth of 4287 feet and is said to be free from water.

IT IS THE FIRST PRODUCTION THAT HAS BEEN STRUCK ON THE SOUTH SIDE OF BURNETT STREET, WEST OF WALNUT AVENUE, IN THE SIGNAL HILL DISTRICT. IT RECORDED A PRESSURE OF 425 POUNDS ON THE TUBING AND 925 POUNDS ON THE CASING. THE WELL WAS DEVELOPED BY C. N. PROUHET AND S. C. TROUPE.

BUILDING PERMITS
Building permits issued yesterday amounted to $100,000 in value.

"DADDY'S DAY"

BY H. B. PRESS

(Next Sunday, June 17, will be observed as Father's Day in many eastern cities. A number of local merchants and manufacturers, headed by Marion R. Gray, are interesting themselves in seeing that proper recognition is given the occasion in Los Angeles also.)

Today they say is Daddy's Day. But for my mind it's every day. That it is dad's in every way. For with no dad there'd be no day.

For dad, dear dad, is but the one. Who never seems to have much fun. For he must go to work each day. For there are always bills to pay.

But somehow all along the way. It's dad who keeps the wolf away. And keeps on digging—pays and pays.

We somehow seem to sort-a feel. That dad's a fixture at the wheel. And kind-a think he's always there. A smilin', cheerful everywhere.

But then some day the day will dawn. When dad's not here—but—dad is gone. And then—then—then—we will awake. To know he lived just for our sake.

And then—we'll know it is too late. For dad's not here—he couldn't. And things unaid we'll never say. For things undone—we'll pay and pay.

So now—let's doff our hat to him. Alive, a-smilin', full of vim. And tell him, show him, Daddy's. Means what it should in every way.

Will of Letts With Bequests Now Effective

The will of Arthur Letts, merchant, was admitted to probate yesterday by Judge McLucas, with public bequests of $38,000 which will now be effective. The value of the estate was not estimated except as "exceeding $10,000."

The income tax receipts for the fiscal year to date reached $78,298,921.33 yesterday, and it is estimated that the June collections from the estate and other property will exceed $1,000,000. Tomorrow is the dead line for second installment payments. Taxpayers are threatening the Federal Building.

POSLAM OFTEN ENDS PIMPLES IN 24 HOURS

Folks who know what Poslam can do don't worry any more about pimples!

Whenever any of these annoying eruptions appear, they just dab them at night with that gentle, healing ointment. It is so concentrated that by the next morning the pimples have sometimes dried away. If they aren't all gone then, touch them again with a bit of Poslam. This seldom fails to do the trick, and it is so nearly flesh-colored that it is hardly noticeable on the face.

Washing the face with Poslam Soap and hot water helps the treatment wonderfully, and the regular use of Poslam Soap tends to keep the complexion clear. For trial sample, send 10c to POSLAM, 243 W. 47th St., New York.—Advertisement.

The LIMOUSINE The KITCHEN

NAVAL RESERVE UNITS ORGANIZE

Hollywood's Former Sailors to Form Contingent

Six Complete Outfits Are in Fighting Trim

Cruises Listed in Course of Training

Organization by the Los Angeles Naval District of naval reserve units has met such ready response from former war-time gobs as well as from students at various colleges, that today there are four complete units of a hundred members each in Los Angeles, one in Pasadena and one in Santa Monica. Plans are under way for a fifth unit here, to be known as the Hollywood unit.

In the wake of the organization of the first six units, inquiries were received by Commander A. H. Woodbine, U.S.N., commandant of the Los Angeles Naval Reserve District, regarding the feasibility of the establishment of a unit in Hollywood.

HOLLYWOOD UNIT

The inquiries were made in view of numerous applications for enrollment received by the several units from residents in the Hollywood section of the city. And after a survey of the situation, Commander Woodbine authorized Ensign E. T. Kelly of Hollywood to begin operations for the organizing of a Hollywood unit.

With England maintaining a naval reserve of about 40,000 members and the United States one with an enrollment of less than 10,000, the Federal government has begun the rehabilitation of that branch of the service. The Navy Department has recognized the need of having a reserve personnel, which will be trained and equipped, and in readiness to be placed immediately in the fleet. This was considered essential in view of the fact that naval training is more extensive than Army training.

WEEK-END CRUISES

Complete uniform outfits valued at $10 will be issued to those enrolling in the reserve. Week-end cruises for those in a position to take advantage of them will be conducted regularly, and five cruises of two weeks' duration are planned during the summer for the new Hollywood unit. These cruises will be made on destroyers and will include all the maneuvers conducted by that type of fighting craft during the regular fleet practice.

Former naval men especially will be given an opportunity for advancement and all will be paid the regular naval pay while on the cruises.

Drills for those in a position to take part will be conducted in the Armory, 1945 South Los Angeles street.

MRS. ORCHARD ASKS DIVORCE

been told by Folk and to have taken place March 2. Mrs. Orchard exhibited both surprise and annoyance at the report, and denied it promptly. Her denial was corroborated by the Missouri authorities, who said no such marriage was on record.

"SHEIK" ARRESTED

Then Folk disappeared and was charged with embezzlement by the hotel where he was employed. It was discovered he was on board a train bound for Los Angeles. He was found and taken from the train at San Bernardino, disguised as Bill Hart, by Los Angeles detectives, held several days in the Lincoln Heights Jail, and finally released when the charge against him was dropped. Mrs. Orchard did not visit him in jail, but her son, Winston Durkin, was at San Bernardino to meet him.

In 1919 Mrs. Orchard shot her husband during a quarrel over young Durkin. After hovering between life and death several days, Orchard recovered and the couple were reconciled. A few months later bandits robbed her of $30,000 worth of jewelry after locking her bound and gagged in a closet of her home at 1525 Orange street. Until the separation the Orchard family lived at 1743 Victoria drive. Mrs. Orchard moved to 1919 West Fifteenth street.

the unavailing publicity given the company through Gillette's assertions of actions, it was necessary to allow the lease to expire. He declares that his personal losses total $100,000, not including a sum for asserted exemplary damages. But he explains, he will be satisfied to recover only what he lost because of Gillette's resignation, which is said to have violated the agreement all members of the company had signed.

The safety razor king could not be located at his home yesterday, but on Saturday Attorney Herin will take his deposition. The suit is expected to come to trial in the near future, and Kutter's array of legal talent declares the case will be fought to the United States Supreme court if necessary.

IRON MOULDER SEIZES WIRE AND IS BURNED

Arthur Davies, an iron moulder working at the Washington Iron Works, Eighth and Mateo streets, was seriously burned while at work yesterday afternoon, when he seized a high tension wire attached to an electric hammer. His hands and arms were badly burned and he was knocked unconscious. He was treated at the Receiving Hospital.

tion Park, with its seating capacity of 10,000. Giving a brief history of the manner in which he obtained the berth Olympiad for Los Angeles, Mr. Garland said that in 1922 about 6000 of the world's most famous athletes will compete for prizes at the Los Angeles Coliseum, which he described as "the largest and most beautiful structure of its kind in the world."

OLYMPIAD OBTAINED

Mr. Garland advocated the formation of an Olympic Committee which should begin functioning at once in preparation for the great event of 1932, suggesting that members of the committee be sent to the Paris Olympiad in 1924 and to the Amsterdam athletic festival in 1928.

TELLS OF UNION PACIFIC

Mr. Calvin stated that the Union Pacific had spent more than $5,000,000 in Southern California between 1920 and 1922. More than $3,000,000, he said, is being expended this year, exclusive of viaduct work.

"Besides the great improvements in our shops in 1922," Mr. Calvin said, "the Union Pacific has placed in operation a complete set of new locomotives, twenty-five in number, purchased from the Baldwin and American locomotive works. And I want to add that the program of expansion of our railroad has only just begun."

LINES IN HARMONY

"Another point I want to make clear is the fact that it is the purpose of the Union Pacific to work in full harmony with the other two transcontinental lines. No antagonism whatever exists; all is harmony. Los Angeles is fortunate in having three of the best railroads in the United States, and we are all co-operating with the government and city in the development of the harbor. Everyone recognizes the fact that our port is fast becoming one of the greatest harbors in the world."

Other speakers on the program yesterday were Marius de Brabant, assistant traffic manager of the Union Pacific, and Francis Marshall, Deputy City Auditor, who spoke of the success of Mr. de Brabant and the Union Pacific officials in their efforts to change the laws of New York in order to double the bonding capacity of Los Angeles.

Glendale Girl, Missing From Dance, Returns

An all-night search for pretty Mary Byrd, 17-year-old Glendale high-school girl, who dropped from sight of her brother, James S. Byrd, Jr., at a Los Angeles dance hall Tuesday night, ended yesterday morning when she returned to her home.

A story of being enticed away from the dance by a blonde-haired woman of about 25 years of age, who said her brother was hurt, of a trip in an automobile to a house less than a mile from the dance hall, of being held captive by the woman and two men and released unharmed in the morning, was told by the girl on her return to her home in Glendale, according to a statement to members of the sheriff's staff last night by her father, a contractor.

The father, in reporting the abduction of his daughter to officers, asked their aid in finding her captors. Beyond the description by the girl of the woman, little information is in the hands of authorities on which to base a search, the officials stated.

Woman Extra Is Suffering From Exposure

Lillian Short, 24 years of age, film extra, one of 300 persons who took part in the spectacle of the Children of Israel coming out of the Red Sea in Cecil De Mille's production, "The Ten Commandments," was taken to the Hillside Hospital at Los Angeles Harbor last night suffering from exposure incurred at the Palms Verde location of the company.

When the bedraggled crowd of actors and extras emerged from the "Red Sea" the film company found it necessary to hire all the taxicabs in Los Angeles Harbor to return them to Los Angeles.

Praise Is Given De Brabant by Local Chamber

A resolution thanking Marius de Brabant and the Union Pacific Railroad for their success in getting a reversal of the ruling against Los Angeles municipal bonds in the State of New York, has been passed by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, it was announced yesterday by W. T. Bishop, the president.

WOMAN IS LURED AWAY BY TWO MEN

Says She Went in Automobile on Promise of Job;
Taken to Hills

Miss Fay Elita Davis, 22 years of age, who says she lives with her mother at 341 Potter Park avenue, reported to police last night that two men lured her into an automobile with promises of a job in a motion-picture theater and attacked her twice. One attack took place on a road in the hills beyond Hollywood and the other in the rear of the Normal Hill automobile parking station. The latter occurring after they had brought her back to town and after one of the men had left, she told police.

After the asserted latter attack in which she said the man used a knife, tore her clothes and threatened her with a pistol, she fled and said he put her out and drove away. Then she went to the Bible Institute and called the police.

An investigation being made by Detectives White and Adams who have the number of the man's car, asserted to have been the one in which she was taken to the Receiving Hospital by police.

The prevalent epidemic of attacks in Los Angeles, which has been having caused George W. Youngblood, residing in the 4900 block in Lincoln avenue, to think attacks had been made on him, said he had been taken to the Metro studio, had an argument, after which the husband ran and the wife in following tripped and fell. She was said to have been unhurt.

POLICE DENY CRIME WAVE

reau, Captain of Detectives George K. Jones lists ten such instances as occurring in this city since March 1, 1932. This includes a report of the Astoria Jolley case, three of which the assailant is reported as having been arrested. In the other seven cases having been fought off or frightened away. Three of these women are reported to have stopped the attention of the police before as being of bad character.

In one case a woman hugged a man who told her she was arrested, but the woman would not prosecute. A colored woman was taken to the arm by a man who pushed her down a flight of stairs. A girl was fondled by a man, who was a fugitive from justice. A married woman accused a Mexican of attacking her. She was embraced by a man, who was arrested shortly afterward. A colored woman accused a police officer of molesting her. The man was released. A woman accused four men of drugging and attacking her. They are in jail. The police have been charged with inefficiency in the police department or in any other constituted agencies for the enforcement of the law, and if so, where is the remedy?

Sixth: Is it true that thugs and thieves, libertines and degenerates, dope peddlers and other criminals are operating on our streets with apparent impunity and if so, who is responsible for such a condition?

MINISTERS NOT AFTER CHIEF OAKS

Statement from Clergymen
Declares: Reforms Only
Purpose of Investigation

A statement denying that they had sought to discredit the character of Chief of Police Oaks, or had asked the dismissal of Acting Chief Hill or Police Captain Plummer, was made last night by Rev. Robert P. Shuler and Rev. G. A. Brigleigh, the two Protestant ministers who have recently criticized the police department. The statement follows:

In every discussion of matters pertaining to public welfare, there is always grave danger that the real issues will become obscured through the injection of personalities. In view of the present conditions, in our city, we feel it to be imperative that we give the public a statement of our relationship to the present agitation.

At no time have we sought to discredit the character of Chief of Police Louis D. Oaks, nor have we asked for the dismissal of Acting Chief Hill or Capt. Plummer of the San Pedro division. We have never questioned the honesty of these officers. However, we are absolutely convinced that, prior to last Sunday's meeting at Trinity church, conditions existed in this city that proved the police department to be woefully inefficient and ineffective. For a substantiation of the existence of these conditions, we call the attention of the public to the fact that before any steps were taken by us, three of the great dailies of our city, in both news items and editorials, had charged that these conditions existed.

We rejoice to note that the Mayor, the grand jury and other officials interested in crime prevention have, according to the newspapers, announced their intention to conduct a sweeping investigation. We further rejoice that the police are showing increased activity and that the courts are beginning to mete out sentences and require bonds, in some degree at least, commensurate with the offenses charged.

In view of these facts, we feel confident that our efforts have not been in vain. Moreover, we sincerely hope that the investigations now being conducted will determine the truth or falsity of the charges and expose to public wrath and punishment any who are guilty.

Fourth: Is it true that when arrests have been made on some occasions officers making such arrests have been charged to other districts of the city, the charges modified and those charged with serious crimes thus taken care of?

Fifth: Is there graft, corruption, crookedness and ineffectiveness in the police department or in any other constituted agencies for the enforcement of the law, and if so, where is the remedy?

Sixth: Is it true that thugs and thieves, libertines and degenerates, dope peddlers and other criminals are operating on our streets with apparent impunity and if so, who is responsible for such a condition?

G. A. BRIGLEIGH,
R. F. SHULER.

State Dry Aides Empowered to Grant Permits

Collector Goodell yesterday received an order from Commissioner of Internal Revenue Blair, vesting State prohibition directors with the same authority as that now held by the Commissioner to approve and to disapprove applications for and to issue, the following basic liquor permits:

Permits to physicians to prepare prescriptions; permits to use intoxicating liquors; permits to dentists and veterinarians to use alcohol and permits to transport by truck.

The procedure relating to these applications and permits will correspond with that relating to basic permits issued by the Commissioner.

Applications for permits to manufacture or use spirits under National Prohibition Act may be acted upon by the Prohibition Director, without making an inspection if the Director has evidence justifying his action without inspection.

ATTACK SUSPECT IS HELD AT BAKERSFIELD

(REUTERS DISPATCH)

BAKERSFIELD, June 13.—Manuel Fernandez is being held here as a suspect in connection with the attack on Mrs. L. Varon of Los Angeles at Rosamond in the Mojave Desert the 2nd inst. and will probably be taken to Los Angeles by Sheriff Walser to see if Mrs. Varon can identify him. Fernandez, who is charged with trespassing on railroad property, denies any knowledge of the attack and declares he had not been near Rosamond. He was arrested in the Southern Pacific yards as he alighted from a northbound freight train. He is said to be a rather vague description given by Mrs. Varon of one of her assailants. Sheriff Walser and a posse are still at Rosamond.

OFFICER'S WIFE ATTACKED

Plucky Fight of Mrs. R. C. Rasmussen Saves Her
From Three Thugs Who Seize Her Near Home

Search is being made by the police today for three young men who attacked Mrs. R. C. Rasmussen, 25 years of age, 1725 One Hundred and Second street, Tuesday night. Details of the attack on the woman, who is the wife of Patrolman Rasmussen of the Sawtelle division, were disclosed late yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Rasmussen, was returning home Tuesday night, according to police, when the three men leaped on her from behind a signboard at Colorado and One Hundred and Fourth streets. Two of her assailants grabbed Mrs. Rasmussen around the body and the third placed his hand over her mouth to prevent her from screaming.

Mrs. Rasmussen struggled desperately while her assailants were dragging her behind the signboard. She finally managed to tear her feet free from the grasp of one of the asserted attack by Joseph, in which she stated that she almost developed after this intimacy. She said she informed her mother of her condition and that later she was treated by a physician.

Miss Jolley admitted that she had run away from home last March and gave as her reason a whipping said to have been inflicted by her sister. She stated she was returned to her home by a man whose name she did not know. As to the asserted kidnapping and subsequent events, she told practically the same story as at the former hearing.

She included in the list of her asserted assailants two more youths, however, and police officials were looking for these men last night. The men named by Miss Jolley are Hugh McCann and a youth named Noble, his Christian name unknown to her.

Questioned as to her former declaration that she was dragged by the band of youths, the witness testified that she was given "capsules" repeatedly by the men, and that she was able to tell but part of what happened between the time she left her home and when she was found in a Clay-street rooming-house.

She admitted seeing McCann and Stanley in the rooming-house, but vigorously denied that she intended to marry McCann or that the kidnapping was arranged that she might meet him, go to Santa Ana and be married.

Sanceri was present in the room at the time of the hearing, and accompanied to the Jolley home by Officers Briggs and Bergman. The officers warned these present they would permit no demonstration against Sanceri and closely guarded him during the hearing.

Asked to identify Sanceri as one of her assailants, Miss Jolley pointed her finger at the accused and declared that "he is one of them."

The witness was unable to give the location where she asserted the attacks took place. She was questioned closely on this point by Defense Attorney Sanders, who repeatedly asked her if the affair might not have happened outside of Los Angeles county. Her reply was that she had been taken to a place that she could not designate the spot.

As to her treatment at the hands of the men, she asserted they held her for three days and nights. Miss Jolley declared she had nothing to eat or drink during this time. She denied that she had been taken of food at an East Seventh-street cafe, and further, that she informed two officers, who stated to have stopped the car in which she was riding, that she was a married woman and out for a ride with "her husband."

Dr. Shaffer, physician attending Miss Jolley, warned Deputy Atty. Jordan and Attorney Sanders before the hearing that Miss Jolley was physically unfit for a prolonged questioning. He stated she had a temperature and her pulse rate was high.

The hearing lasted nearly two hours. Defense Attorney Sanders taking up a major portion of the time with his cross-examination.

Causes Man to be Arrested on Attack Charge

Charged with attacking a woman, he had invited to ride in his automobile by using a pistol and declaration that he was a deputy sheriff, a man who gave his name as Elmer Syvin, 25 years of age, was arrested yesterday by Deputy Sheriffs Jones and Large. He is being held in the County Jail.

The arrest came after the story of the asserted attack had been told by Mrs. Lela Short, 3194 Illinois street, who informed Chief Criminal Investigator Wright of the Sheriff's office that Syvin attacked her on a lonely road on the 24th inst. after she had accepted his invitation to ride in his automobile.

Syvin was arrested with a packed suit case in his possession, according to the Sheriff's office. A search had been in progress since Mrs. Short reported the asserted attack.

GIRL FOUND DEAD AFTER RUM PARTY

Garage Man, Held, Tells Story of Drinking; Three Others Sought

Bootleg whisky is believed by police to have caused the death of Miss Helen Van Langen, 26 years of age, a waitress at a West Pico street cafe, whose body was found in an apartment over a garage at 1717 South Georgia street yesterday morning.

An autopsy performed last yesterday on the body at the White undertaking parlors by County Autopsy Surgeon Wagner developed that a chemical analysis of the dead woman's stomach would be necessary to determine the cause of her death.

J. S. Pursley, owner of the garage, asserted to have been found helplessly drunk at the same time Miss Van Langen's body was found, is being held at the University Police Station pending an investigation of the case.

Pursley, after he had sobered up sufficiently to explain the party, said three men and two women took part. They had met at the cafe where Miss Van Langen worked Tuesday night and had gone to the room over the garage to help him with his accounts, he told the police. Some one suggested liquor, he said, and soon there was a party in full swing. He said one of the men is known as Seymour and one as Charlie Ferrin. Others in the party were not known by name, he said. Police are trying to find the other members of the party.

Discovery of the girl's body was made early yesterday morning by Dr. H. R. Stewart, with offices in the Flagg Building, called to attend the girl and Pursley by Pursley's father, who was alarmed to find them in an unconscious condition. This was the second trip Dr. Stewart made to the room, he having previously been called to treat Pursley, the physician said.

Dr. Stewart said on the first visit the girl was alive and apparently well, although intoxicated. Pursley was in a drunken stupor, he said. On the second visit, however, he found the girl dead and immediately called the police.

WIFE TO PAY ALIMONY TO INFIRM MAN

Mrs. Jennie Myers Ordered to Give Up $12.50 Each Week to Husband

"Father always is in the way," testified the 16-year-old daughter of Abraham Myers in Judge Summerfield's court yesterday. The judge ordered Mrs. Jennie Myers, who is suing for divorce, to pay her husband $12.50 a week alimony.

Mrs. Myers runs a dry goods store on Whittier Boulevard and Myers has been allowed to sleep there since their separation in September, 1921. Myers, old and infirm, took the witness stand and asked the continuation of this privilege and $10 a week for his support.

"I don't want him there," said Mrs. Myers. "He annoys the women customers."

"Father always is threatening mother," said the daughter in support. "He always is in the way around the store."

"Yes," said Judge Summerfield. "He is sick and feeble and old." The couple were married in London in 1906.

Fifty-six Years Wed; Yet Love Grows Stronger

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Wilber of 1066 West Thirtieth street will celebrate their fifty-sixth wedding anniversary Saturday. A few close friends will aid them observing the occasion.

They were married in Hillsdale, Mich., on June 16, 1867 and have resided here for seventeen years. Both are in good health and Mrs. Wilber asserts that her love for California and for her husband is growing constantly.

GAMBLING HEARING SET

Hearing was set for the 19th inst. in the case of George Brown, Julius McAllister, R. Murray and J. B. Vance, negroes, jointly accused of operating a gambling game, when the four were arraigned before Justice Forbes. Bail of $250 each was furnished.

 Now that the civic center has been decided the railroads will have some mighty valuable property in their holdings when the union terminal is settled north of the Plaza. They should grab while the grabbing is good.

NOT TRUE TO LIFE
 Objection is made by the residents of a New Jersey city because the soldiers' monument they ordered is surmounted by the figure of a woman with uplifted hands instead of a soldier. It is always the man who has to hold up his hands in these days and sometimes it is the woman who makes him do it. There is a lack of truth in this bit of art.

THIS AND THAT
 It seems assured that the State income will this year exceed the expenditures and no levy of an ad valorem tax is in sight. The finances of the State are in better condition than for several years past and a notable reduction of expenditures has been accomplished. The administration of Gov. Richardson has made good to this extent and it was something of a miracle, at that.

THE REAL THING
 A leading New York sculptor says that the report that many of our millionaires have been buying Lydia Pinkham's for Venuses is greatly exaggerated. He insists that not many fakes have been perpetrated and that in ninety-seven cases out of 100 the collector gets what he thinks he is buying. Of course, some of the purchasers have been short-changed occasionally, but most of our old masters are genuine.

THE YOUNG IDEA
 There are said to be upward of 1600 applications for positions in the public schools of Los Angeles. It is expected that changes, additions and new schools will call upward of 500 fresh faces into the teaching service, but the supply still greatly exceeds the demand. There are at least three candidates for each appointment. Capable teachers come to California from all the States in the Union and positions in the Los Angeles schools are considered unusually desirable. The young idea should learn to shoot straight with all the talent at its command.

TRANSPLANTED EYES
 A celebrated scientist of Vienna is making a wonderful reputation through his successful experiments in transplanting the human eye. It is said that he has been able to restore sight to the blind. This savor of the miraculous, but if he could straighten the vision of those who are mentally oblique it would be still more important. To snatch an eye from the dying to give sight to the living is marvellous, but to lift the viewpoint of humanity would be a benediction. Further details regarding the labors of the Austrian genius will be received with interest.

THE OIL INDUSTRY
 Everybody seems to be getting into the oil game. Even the Japanese have a well at Signal Hill, and Chinese students at the university have one near Carpinteria. They don't exactly expect to put the Rockefeller out of business, but if there is money in oil they feel warranted in reaching after a bit of it. Our beloved State is being shot so full of holes that it resembles a Swiss cheese. One of the problems that comes up is that of keeping the wells alive as they slow up production. Some are being deepened and some are being sunk to new levels at the outset. The problem will be to pump oil from a well more than a mile deep. It will be done and the mechanists and inventors will make it a simple process, but just now it is some job. Mostly, they wait till the well fills up before they begin pumping, but there would be a lot more in it if it were easy to pump directly from a pocket that may be 5000 feet underground.

BUILDING TROUBLES
 Bricklayers who went on strike in New York with no apparent reason are now out of work for a very definite cause. There is a famine in brick in the big city. Gotham has immediate need for 400,000,000 brick to complete building operations under way or planned. The last of the 1922 output in the entire New York district has been completely exhausted and it will be some weeks before the new supply can be brought to market. About 2,000,000 bricks are being brought in from Holland every week at a cost of about $25 a thousand, but this isn't even a drop in the bucket. With contractors fighting for building material and several unions on strike the situation is badly jammed and a great many projects that were in a chrysalis stage have been dropped entirely. It was estimated that New York would have needed 1,000,000,000 brick to supply all its demands for the season, but from necessity this total will be shaded to a notable degree. There is also a switching to steel and concrete by some of the architects and builders in order to avoid the larger use of brick. Even brick masons may be dispensed with in time. If materials and wages are too high the house will not be built. It is a simple proposition, after all.

FRANCO-BRITISH ENTENTE PASSE
 One of the first indications of the foreign policy of the Baldwin government in Great Britain is the widening of the chasm that separates England from her late ally across the channel.
 Premier Poincaré of France asserted in an official statement that his government will not consent to discuss in conference the reparations questions with England and Italy until they formally announce their assent to the French policy of occupying the Ruhr. The British government replied with a note that has not been made public; but the conference that was to have been held in London this week has been abandoned. According to a London cable Lord Curzon, the British Foreign Minister, informed Premier Poincaré that the British government will never endorse the French invasion of German territory.
 It will be recalled that the Bonar Law government declined to endorse the French Ruhr adventure and that conferences between the French and British commissioners ceased abruptly early in January. While the Bonar Law government declined to give material support to Germany, the moral effect of the British attitude encouraged the Germans in their passive resistance.

There were times, however, when the Bonar Law government seemed to be giving tacit assent to the occupation. The British forces were so redistributed along the Rhine that the French had easy access for their troops and supplies to the Ruhr. The Berlin government protested; but the complaint was not heeded.

Bonar Law devoted all his efforts to preventing an open break between England and France. Lord Curzon was said to have insisted that the British government should make a formal protest to France over the Ruhr occupation, one that all the world would understand. Bonar Law declined to go so far; and, for a time in March, the rumor was current that Lord Curzon would resign.

Under Premier Baldwin the policy advocated by Lord Curzon is gaining the ascendancy. Premier Poincaré has been told very bluntly that, in the opinion of the British government, France is not justified in her action, and that England will give her neither material nor moral support.

From this distance, such a policy looks to be playing into Germany's hands. Lord Curzon and Premier Poincaré are equally unyielding, once they have spoken. They have not the faculty of Clemenceau and Lloyd George of quarreling and making up. It is not surprising that Germany, under these conditions, should be recovering her morale, which was badly shattered in 1918. That the Germans are planning to drive the French from the Ruhr and the Rhineland by force of arms is no longer to be doubted; and it is, perhaps, hazardous for France longer to ignore it.

When the passive resistance will be converted into trench warfare is a question of months, perhaps weeks. The French government is aware that the assembling and drilling of troops is taking place in Bavaria and that arms are being manufactured in Sweden and Russia for possible use in Germany. No orders have been placed for arms or ammunition by the Berlin government; but the heads of the industries that have been seized by the French in the Ruhr are making use of their funds deposited outside Germany for what they term "the defense of the Fatherland."

Before these preparations, however, the French government is not flinching. Its measures in the occupied districts are more drastic. The French press tells the Germans that if they want open war they have only to say the word.

Perhaps the French understand the German psychology better than peoples farther removed from them. It is traditional in France that the Germans are easily bullied, once they have been cowed. Moreover, the French believe that with the Ruhr industries closed, Germany has not the means to equip and provision an army sufficient to cope with the 500,000 men now in the field under French colors.
 Whatever the future may hold, peaceful solutions seem to be no longer considered on the continent of Europe. Force is now king. Right unsupported by arms is regarded as a pleasant fiction. It seems daily less probable that war between France and Germany can be averted. Perhaps it was the unavoidable result of her failing to enter the League of Nations, and the failure of the British and American governments to endorse the defensive alliance treaty that was negotiated at Paris and signed by President Wilson and Lloyd George.

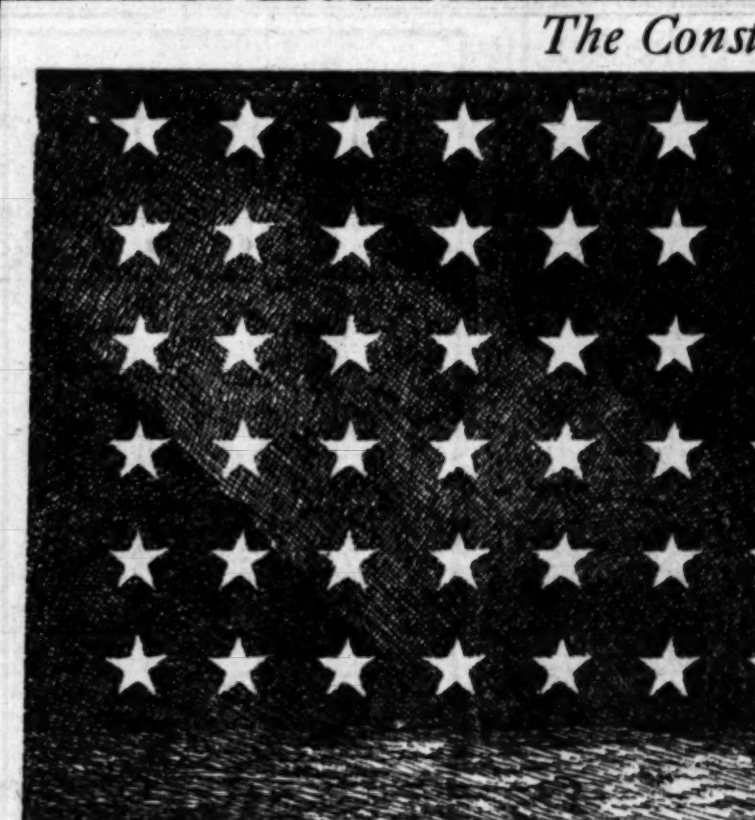

What might have been it is now bootless to recall. We must face the future as it will be, not as it might have been.

ALASKA
 President Harding's contemplated visit to Alaska will naturally draw attention to the great Territory farthest north of Uncle Sam's dominions. It should do more, however, than merely call public notice to that mighty empire of undeveloped resources and limitless possibilities. It should supply an answer to the question, "What's the matter with Alaska?"
 For of a certainty all is not as well with Alaska as it should be. Figures are meager and development prove this. And to discover what the trouble is and to find a remedy is the mission of the President planned for July.

Alaska at present appears to be in a condition of arrested development. After the President, with the co-operation of Secretaries Hoover and Wallace, has conducted an investigation the country will at least know the reason for the standstill in Alaska's development. And we make a shrewd guess a fresh spurt will follow if the report can hold the attention of business men rather than appeal to the politicians.

The majority of Americans have but a vague conception of how large and how rich and how varied in extent and topography and climate is the huge empty area purchased from Russia in 1867 for $7,200,000. It has not remained dormant since then. Under the stimulus of American genius it has multiplied in value a thousandfold. Up to 1922 from its mines and forests, its fisheries and fur trade it has produced over $1,000,000,000. Though these figures merely represent a start in what Alaska could produce, since 1920 there has been a steady falling off in population and commerce.

For this setback there seems to be two main causes: lack of communications to open a back country and want of a

ONE hundred and forty-six years ago today the Continental Congress passed the following resolution:
 "Resolved, that the flag of the thirteen United States of America be thirteen stripes, alternating red and white; that the union be thirteen stars in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

How the flag was conceived and fashioned, in old Arch street, almost within the shadow of Philadelphia's Independence Hall, is a story which has a place in the heart of every American.

Today the children in every schoolroom in the land do reverence once more to the constellation whose growth from thirteen stars has been a symbol of the development of a mighty people.

Since that resolution was moved and seconded in 1777, the Stars and Stripes have been borne through many battles and carried to many quarters of the globe.

Today, Flag Day, let us look back on the flag's baptism, before it had been adopted by the Congress. Let us glance at a little group of rugged Colonial troops, holding a position on an inhospitable New England hill. Let us watch them as they wake in the dawn and take their places in roughly drilled lines—men from farms and shops, chill in body but with a glow in their hearts. On that long-past morning the Constellation of Freedom for the first time took its place among the colors of the nations. Today Uncle Sam, as pictured in the cartoon by Macaulay, looks upon a larger constellation, but not one whose luster is more brilliant than that of the original thirteen stars.

Let us look back through the eyes of Samuel Abbott, who has told the story thus in "The Dramatic History of Old Glory":

"As a natural result of a desire to achieve an army that is to be under a single standard, the 'Grand Union Flag' is about to be raised over the trenches on Prospect Hill this chill morning of the first of January, 1776. The men are falling into line, muffled in homespun, some of them wearing the warm caps of the frontier riflemen, made of the skins of animals. Musket barrels have been polished. Accoutrements have been made neat. The squat cannon, thrust through openings in the trenches, have been loaded. Suddenly the men look toward the crest of the hill, where, accompanied by his staff and mounted on his horse, George Washington appears at the base of the tall pole—a staff cut from a near-by forest. Near him stands a little group of soldiers, one of them holding a flag whose stripes of red and white ripple from his arms in the strong wind. There is a low word of command. The new standard goes quivering, fluttering and tugging at its halliards to the top of the staff. A wild cheer sweeps along the line of the Continental Army of America. Cannon and muskets blaze and bellow. Caps go whirling into the air."

"What matters it who suggested the design when Washington and his officers conferred at headquarters? A flag with a meaning has been fashioned."

"From this snow-swathed hill near Boston, as this flag comes rippling down at sunset, one can see the shadowy dusk of evening brooding over hills and valleys and rivers. Throughout the coming night will blaze the eternal stars that are to give superb beauty to the stripes of red and white. The crimson glow of sunset rests on the hill. It trembles on the white ridges of the snow. With its last faint flare the evening star appears. Nature gives premonition of the great world emblem of liberty yet to come forth."

sturdy stock of pioneers to press forward into the untamed wilderness; more roads to travel on and more men to travel those roads. Money can build railroads and highways—the nation must supply the same breed as the pioneers who colonized the Dakotas and conquered the mountain ranges of Colorado and the deserts of the West. Else this nation will never realize its full value the wealth hidden in the grim solitudes that penetrate the eternal ice of the polar seas.

As regards resources and opportunities, there is nothing the matter with Alaska. The waters around its 4750 miles of seacoast teem with fish; its 600,000 square miles of land surface contain spruce and fir and yellow cedar and coal and oil and gold and zinc and iron ore and tungsten and fur-bearing animals whose pelts in a Broadway store are worth a king's ransom, and valleys and plains where the wheat grows harder and firmer than the brand they harvest at Edmonton, and unimproved pastures where cattle could stand belly-deep in the lush grasses and where it doesn't freeze and snow all the year—but part of the time only mists and blows and rains.

But it takes money and grit to go after these mighty opportunities. American business is not blind to the value of yellow cedar and canned salmon and zinc and tungsten and silver-fox hides and casks of bully beef. The head, however, must have hands to help it and this is an age where the young and active love creature comforts and city life.

Anyhow, when President Harding returns from the North he will be able to tell the people what is the matter, not so much, perhaps, with Alaska as with themselves.

WOULD HONOR ROOSEVELT
 There is a urge for an organization that has as its object the changing of the name of New Mexico to Roosevelt. But altering the name of a State is even more difficult than changing the boundaries. It is claimed that the name of New Mexico means nothing to the average American—or, if it does, it suggests wildness and unrest. On the other hand, there are many citizens of the West who will not be content until they have a broad tract of land named after their beloved colonel.

Now if we can get the Democrats to refrain from endorsing the Harding World Court issue it is bound to become stronger and stronger as time goes by. We are often weakened by our political enemies trying to do us a favor.

The working of the new tariff law is amazing everybody. The receipts so far show that it is a far better revenue producer than any of its predecessors. Imports are mounting under the law in both dutiable and nondutiable classes. It raises the question whether those who opposed the 1922 act on the ground that it would hold down the importations and those who favored it for the same reason were not equally deceived. The new tariff law has evidently been a rule unto itself.

THIS IS THE DAY
 The Second Continental Congress adopted the Stars and Stripes as the national flag in the year 1777. According to tradition Betsy Ross designed the original emblem in her upholstery shop on Arch street, Philadelphia. On June 14, 1777, John Adams introduced the following resolution which was adopted unanimously: "Resolved, That the flag of the thirteen United States shall be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white, that the union be thirteen stars, white on a blue field, representing a new constellation." The public announcement to the nation was made on September 3, 1777.

EASY-CHAIR SCIENCE
 BY RANSOME BUTTS
 XXXI. THE RISE OF THE RACES

In the primordial homeland there were no white, black and yellow varieties of mankind, no chiefs nor priests, just a commonality of bush people, who lived, like pygmies, on roots, buds, birds' eggs, insects and easily-captured creatures. De Quatrefages, one of the founders of anthropology, described the ancestral human stock as "red-haired, yellow-skinned and prognathous, the red being a sunset brown and the yellow a yellowish brown."

We know that changes take place in peoples who separate and settle in remote regions. Canadians, Australians, Americans and South Africans, for example, are all descended from Englishmen; yet in these remote regions they have acquired peculiarities which distinguish them not only from the ancestral Britons, but from one another as well. Even in the United States southerners, westerners and New Englanders are distinguishable by experts in physiognomy. These differences have been acquired within a few centuries, despite the fact that intercourse has not been interrupted. If the Mason and Dixon Line were sketched it is quite conceivable that within 100,000 years, southerners and northerners would differentiate into distinct races. Varieties of mankind are said to be incipient races.

The dispersion of the tribes was not a planned process; nor did they purposely pick up their belongings and moved into unexplored regions. It was a spreading-out process, a search after new hunting grounds. Hunting too far afield tribes frequently became lost and, finally forgetting the homeland, wandered farther and farther away. By such lost tribes the continents were thinly populated before the coming of the first European settlers.

The manner in which primitive peoples spread over the world was similar to the spreading out of English colonists across North America and of Portuguese and Spanish across South America, since the first European settlements were founded on the Atlantic Coast. The peopling of unoccupied hunting grounds, by Indians, was still going on when the Europeans landed.

From the original homeland tribes found their way into Asia, Europe and Africa and from such now. Men grew white, black and yellow races. For thousands of years these peoples lived apart, ignorant of the existence of one another. There was no interbreeding. Variations, whether mental or physical, caused by environmental conditions, became more and more pronounced with the centuries.

The African climate, being moist and tropical, was then, as now, very different from that encountered "on the roof of the world," in Asia. In the tropics very little meat was eaten; fruits and vegetables were the principal foods, and such foods could be easily obtained with great effort or risk.

As the sun supplied warmth, clothing was not necessary, save as an adornment. The original Africans, therefore, were not obliged to struggle to exist. They perceived a great deal, and perception plus frugal food stimulated the formation of pigment, which in time rendered them black.

Some years ago an Englishman took a flock of snow-white sheep to Sierra Leone, equatorial West Africa, and these white sheep gave rise to a black-headed variety, without coming in contact with any native breeds. Clearly, the climate and other African conditions turned their heads black.

All human skin contains pigment, but the pigment blanches in the north and blackens in the tropics. It is only natural, therefore, that the descendants of the original stock, which settled along the equator, should have developed the physical and mental characters peculiar to the negro race.

In northern lands food was required to maintain the temperature of the blood, just as skins were required to keep the body warm. To obtain flesh food obliged the exercise of courage and cunning, and gradually, due to the nature of the struggle for existence, the brain and the body acquired the characteristics peculiar to the white and yellow races.

From the three primary races many subraces have sprung. Indians, for example, are Americanized offshoots of the yellow race.

PLEASING PLAY
GIVEN BY CLUB

Barrie Production Staged at Ebell Meeting

University Students Compose
Character Cast

Acting Wins Applause From Large Audience

BY MYRA NYE

Certainly the play is the thing. And the next thing is to have fresh faces, youthful voices, beauty of young womanhood and strength of young manhood to achieve pure enjoyment in theatrical productions.

This was the combination attained at the Ebell Club's last regular meeting. The play was called "Amy's Diary." In reality it was Barrie's "A Little Girl in the Woods." And who can write plays like Barrie? This was a play seemingly simple, but with delicious complex situations, with five better amateur actors on the stage at once, all taking a different viewpoint of what is happening and only the audience in on the secret. It was pure delight.

The cast was taken by young people of the school of speech of the University of Southern California. I think no better amateur production, at least none more enjoyable, has been given in club circles.

Those concerned in the play were: Amy Grey, a lovable sentimental who has been too often to the theater, played by Ruth Canary, pretty, bubbly, and a smile that would disarm an octopus; Cosmo Grey, a 15-year-old cadet as yet unlearned, played by Bronson Howard, who acted well and read his lines acceptably, but did not look the part, partly because he had not enough make-up; the maid, played by Georgia Bennethum; Geneva Dunbar, a master mind who got Amy in most of her difficulties by absurd suggestions as to how to deal with the problems of life; the nurse, Alice's natural enemy because she had taken care of Alice's baby for seventeen months while Alice was in India; Mollie Grey, the 12-month-old who has as yet been more heard than seen.

It takes a new paragraph and a new sentence to tell of Lucille McMurrin, the college girl taking the part of Alice Grey, the college's adorable harem-maiden wife. I suppose it is not hard to pick several adorable girls in a university with as many enrolled as U.S.C., but it certainly was an adept chooser who selected Miss McMurrin. Her hair was natural and a marvel, her complexion was almost natural and more than a marvel and her smile beat her play daughter's for it was of many kinds. And she was young, not the Theda Bara sort of youth nor even the Mary Pickford sort, but honest-to-goodness young, acting well the part of a charming woman of 18.

Col. Grey was Alice's balance wheel in the play; that is, he toned her down when she became too fanciful regarding her children whom she had not seen for so long. The part was taken by Mont McMillan, who played with reserve; and Harold Berry took the part of Steve Rollo, the good, but unloved, step-son by Richardson, his servant, who should have been a man, but wasn't.

The first act was the room of Amy's diary in a modest little house in Brompton, made beautiful, or nearly so, by a girl, Amy, who has a soul above foot.

It is about 10 a.m. when the act begins. The second act should represent a man's chamber at night, according to the two stage-struck young girls, a handsome, somber room with a young man, and a curtain. But Steve cannot afford such a room and so the action takes place in a comfortable bachelor lodging at 1:30 p.m. instead of 11:10 a.m. when, according to the plays, Amy has seen—five of them in one week—a woman would visit a man. The third act finds everybody except Richardson and the servant back in the room of the diary. The hour is one when everybody ought to be in bed.

When the people went through the performance as though they were having a good time and they made their audience have more than one.

Clubs Will Be Represented
Gov. J. A. O. Prou of Minnesota, at the suggestion of Mrs. Winter, general federation president, has sent to Mrs. John C. Urquhart, state president, an invitation asking that California appoint a delegate to be sent to the national wheat conference which meets in Chicago the 19th and 20th inst.

This conference has been called by several Governors and leaders of large organizations to bring together those interested in the grain interests. The main object is to try to restore the purchasing power of the farm in the interest of general industry. Mrs. Urquhart is planning to send Mrs. Clarence M. Harrington, chairman of home demonstration.

Landscape School for Women
California women have acquired a prominent place in the profession of landscape architecture in this country. California climate and natural beauties add to the charm of the profession and women, as well as men, to enter this field.

While English women had established schools for horticulture, such as the famous one under the patronage of Lady Warwick, it is left for an American woman, Mrs. Edward Officariat Low, to go a step further and open a school for landscape gardening for women. Low, who is now in California, is a graduate of the University of Massachusetts, and is a member of the American Society of Landscape Architects.

THE WOMAN and Her Job

When the Cupboard is Bare

Questions of general interest bearing on the vocational training of women and their employment problems will be answered by Mrs. Watson in this column.

A crash of glass and china—a stifled cry—the crawl of yellow straps across a new green crepe satin skirt!

Criminal carelessness! And my gown!

Then I caught the frightened eyes of the girl whose tray had slipped from her hands and wrought such havoc.

Small to stand such a long period of idleness.

First she tried to get temporary work as a substitute stenographer, but a week's search had not brought results and had left her in a desperate frame of mind.

By chance she encountered the house-mother of a home for young women, and to her submitted the problem. Just at that time the Davenport had thrown open a group of charming tea rooms. The manager was insistent that she be allowed to work there, and it was agreed quickly. Then a talk with the manager followed, and she had been put to work.

She was filling her first order when the tray had tipped, and the damage to my dress brought about our acquaintance.

Then I, too, talked with that manager. He agreed to say nothing further to the girl, but still insisted on paying for cleaning the dress.

A few days later I stopped in for luncheon and found the girl at work. She had learned much in the three days that had passed, and when the late noon crowd had thinned she told me of her experience.

Her first tip was epochal. She was insulted, and thought she would ignore it. But her associate at that end of the room laughed at her acquiescence, and told her to pocket it and see what the day's luck would bring her. Tips had never been a part of her experience, but she didn't take kindly to the thought.

WINS SCHOLARSHIP HONORS Graduates From Marlborough Today

Miss Clara Frost

TODAY Miss Clara Frost will be graduated from the Marlborough School for Girls. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar A. Frost of Kingsley Drive and has won the French medal at her school this year. Her sister, Miss Kate Frost, has just returned from Miss Bennett's school in New York, and on Tuesday Mrs. Frost entertained for her two daughters.

Misses Lillian Neal and Gertrude Peters. Saturday evening seemed to be a very happy one for the girls here and around the school. The girls of the Delta Chapter of the Alpha Chi Omega, who have just completed the year at Miss Chamberlain's school at Santa Barbara, and they expect to return in six weeks.

Recent arrivals at the Beverly Hills Hotel include Judge and Mrs. M. Fitzpatrick of San Francisco, Mrs. Belle Fulton Butt of New York City, Mr. Nat Head of Monterey, Mr. and Mrs. Walt W. Perkins of Philadelphia and Mr. and Mrs. George C. Thomas Remington of Colorado.

Growth of boys when under mental or physical strain is injuriously affected, according to recent tests in the Manchester (Eng.) grammar school.

A small informal luncheon at the Beverly Hills Hotel on Monday was made up of Mrs. Roland Porter Bishop and Mrs. William Mead of the hotel, Mrs. Burton E. Green of Lexington Road, Beverly Hills.

The Sigma Chi Society had its annual banquet and initiation in the Rose Room of the Mary Louise Saturday evening.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

A Test for Veal
Veal should be pale in color, firm, and close-grained. The fat should be white and that around the kidney hard.

Footstools for Comfort
When children have outgrown their high chairs and yet are so small that their feet do not touch the floor, footstools should be provided them. They will make children sit properly and prevent damage to the rungs of the chair. A wooden soap box, covered with some inexpensive material, can be used with satisfaction.

Salt vs. Grease
To avoid the unpleasant smoke that sometimes arises when cooking hot cakes some women tie some salt in a bag and rub the griddle with this instead of greasing it.

Just Salt
Salt will make whitewash stick. Salt on fresh ink stains will help in removing the mark. Salt will revive a poor fire if thrown directly on the coals. Salt thrown on the carpet before sweeping will brighten it immensely. Salt thrown on soot will prevent it from making a nasty stain on the carpet. Salt and water solution is an excellent gargle and inhaler for colds in the head.

What to Do
Burned food means a careless cook. Cheap kitchen utensils are poor economy. Silver packed away in dry flour will not tarnish. The fall is the best season in which to paint your house. A bag of hot salt applied to the face will often cure toothache. Five minutes is considered a good length of time for coffee to percolate.

How to make "Surprise" Salad

Make it Take one small head of cabbage and chop fine; add 1/2 cup of chopped pickles, 1/2 cup of chopped sweet pickles, 1/2 cup of vinegar, 1/2 cup of French's Mustard, 1/2 teaspoonful salt. Mix thoroughly and serve on lettuce leaves.

This mustard will help you prepare many other delicious "surprises" in salads and other dishes. A little booklet of recipes comes in every carton. Try them.

French's Cream Salad Mustard

Made only by The F. F. French Company, Rochester, N. Y. B. C. England, Pacific Coast Agent, 24 California St., San Francisco.

The quick, modern way to clean floors is to use a damp mop and a little Old Dutch. A quick and active natural cleanser.

The right way to clean floors

There's nothing like Old Dutch Cleanser to keep wood and all kinds of floors clean; a few strokes make them spick and span.

The secret of its wonderful efficiency and great economy is due to the character of its fine, flaky particles. Made flat-shaped by Nature, they offer more cleaning surface, erasing all the dirt, grease, and grime without scratching. This is the reason why Old Dutch does so much with so little effort, and why it cleans so thoroughly.

Floors cleaned with Old Dutch stay clean a long time because Old Dutch leaves no greasy film to collect dust or grime.

Millions of women now use Old Dutch for all cleaning because of its effective results and economy on floors, walls, sinks, kitchen utensils, bathtubs, stoves, milk cans, separators, etc.

There's nothing else like Old Dutch

At All Ages—Prettier Teeth

Safer, whiter, cleaner teeth

Dainty people—millions of them—get them in this way

This is part of a world-wide crusade for safer, whiter teeth. Dentists of some 50 nations aid it.

It has brought its benefits to millions. It is something you and yours should know. We urge again this ten-day test to show you what it means.

The war on film

Your teeth are coated with a film—that viscous film you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays.

Food stains, etc., discolor it. Then it forms dingy coats. Tartar is based on film. That's why teeth grow cloudy and why troubles come.

Film holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Very few escaped

Very few people, young or old, escaped those film-caused troubles. Beautiful teeth were seen less often than now. All because old methods left much film intact. So dental science sought for film combatants, and two were found. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved those methods effective. Then a new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. Those two film combatants were embodied in it for daily application.

That tooth paste is called Pepsodent. It is bringing, the world over, a new era in teeth cleaning.

New effects

Pepsodent also fights acids. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva to neutralize mouth acids as they form. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva, to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

Thus it gives manifold power to those ever-present tooth-protecting agents in the mouth. Old ways decreased their power.

You'll know in a week

Send this coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

You will know in a week that this new method is essential. You will see new beauty, feel new safety. You owe yourself this test. Cut out the coupon now.

Avoid Harmful Grit
Pepsodent contains the film and removes it without harmful scouring. Its polishing action is far softer than any other. Never use a film combant which contains harsh grit.

She is Happy as a School Girl, Says Mrs. Black

Mrs. Effie Black

"I needed something to strengthen my nerves and appetite and to tone up my whole system, and that is just what Tanlac has done for me to perfection," says Mrs. Effie Black, highly esteemed resident of 419 South Hardesty St., Kansas City, Mo.

"For a long time I suffered from indigestion, gas and heartburn, had a very weak appetite, and was burdened with severe headaches and dizzy spells. My nerves were on edge, I was too restless to sleep right, and felt drowsy and worn out all the time."

"I was convinced before I ever took Tanlac that it was a meritorious medicine, and now I know from experience that the treatment is just wonderful. My appetite and digestion have been restored perfectly, my sleep is refreshing, and I am as healthy and happy as a schoolgirl. I believe Tanlac will help anyone else who suffers like I did."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. 27 million bottles sold.—[Advertisement]

ATTACK ON WOMAN IS ASSERTED

Foreman in Mattress Factory is Accused by Woman Worker

Another warrant in connection with an asserted attack on a woman was issued by Dep. Dist. Atty. McClelland yesterday against Joe Gajski, foreman in a mattress factory on Santa Fe avenue. Gajski is accused by Mrs. Cora Bondurant, an employee at the factory.

Mrs. Bondurant's husband is a fireman. Recently he fell ill and she stayed at home to care for him. She returned to work on the 7th inst.

According to the story she told police, Gajski told her the factory was giving a picnic on the 9th inst. and asked her to go with him and several others. This she did, she said, and returned home with Gajski and two other men, who left their automobiles at Lincoln Park.

Then Mrs. Bondurant accuses Gajski of taking her to a secluded spot in Montecito Drive and attacking her.

Stolen Goods Found Before Loss is Known

Police yesterday succeeded in arresting a burglar suspect and recovering stolen property before its owner learned that her home had been robbed.

Mike Gomez, 28 years of age, was picked up at 400 1/2 North Main street on suspicion of burglary by Detective Lieutenants Malhean, Steckel and Stevens, after a variety of miscellaneous articles had been found in his room.

The detectives returned to headquarters and looked through the reports for stolen goods. On a billfold they found the name of A. Wenger. Investigation revealed that Mr. Wenger roomed at 1013 Britannia street, in a rooming-house kept by Mrs. A. W. Cusler. Mrs. Cusler, interviewed, said she did not know that her house had been robbed. But when she looked around, she discovered that articles had been taken during the night.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES

Picks at the Pictures
OAK GLEN LODGE, June 8.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I have been so furious at Andy Gump lately that I simply must write to someone about it to relieve my feelings. I used to think of Andy Gump and his pals as real human beings, such as the people next door or the relatives back in Jersey City.

The Gump escapades were as necessary a part of the day as the sunrise or sunset and I never missed looking for Andy. They seemed real, like people and not just a bunch of actors. But this last week, all has changed. Andy, who formerly acted like everyone else, has gone through the most ridiculous and nonsensical adventures that could be put down in black and white. Imagine finding $500 in your hat and if that wasn't enough to stagger your senses, the $500 pops up every day in some absurd fashion. I still glance at the Gumps from force of habit but I won't do it much longer. Andy is no reality to me now; he is merely a cartoon.

Can't someone pass a law stopping these senseless Gump happenings? And oh, dear, kind Sid Smith, you who have given us so many hearty laughs in days gone by, wake up from your dreaming and bring back the Wildcat Zander and Uncle Him and start a romance or a scandal or something that really happens. If U. B. and the W. Z. have passed away, then give us Min and Little Chester and the Mother-in-law in snatches of everyday life.

Winnie Winkle and Along Figueroa street and Gasoline Alley are steadily improving but the Gumps, oh, what a slump! And about Gasoline Alley, please let's have Uncle Walt and the divine Mrs. Phyllis Blossom marry right away and give us all some much-needed sleep.

PAUL W. FORD.

On Dangerous Ground
LOS ANGELES, June 10.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Recent horrible crimes against womanhood in Los Angeles have opened the way for a carnival of lawlessness worse, if possible, than the outrages which have made us shudder.

All of us will agree that no punishment is severe enough for men guilty of crimes of which gangsters are accused in the Jolly case. While in a state of mind perturbed by the awfulness of the crimes the most law-abiding among us are liable to applaud the action of a mob which has sought to provide punishment equal to the crime. Regardless of any reason we must all bear in mind that no power is great as the State, and we must be careful to in no way lend encouragement to any movement that will develop into an organized disregard for law, even if the motives of that movement are of the highest order.

If the nation is to endure we must make our laws to meet present conditions, and proceed with the punishment of crime in an orderly way. No mob action ever resulted in good, and every mob has demoralized not only its own members, but the community, the State and the nation.

The fight of every good citizen in Los Angeles right now is to be waged on the side of strict, sure and operations of the law. We must demand and be sure that we receive concerted and prompt action by the police, and that the office of the District Attorney. We must not appeal to mob spirit. We must insist that stable government comes only from a society governed by its Legislature and its courts. When we admit a mob is necessary we admit our government has failed and when we make this confession we have thrown away the greatest heritage ever given to the citizens of any land in any clime.

Deplores Court Fights
LOS ANGELES, June 10.—[To the Editor of The Times:] For several days past faithful Christians have been grieved by headlines in The Times of which the following are specimens: "Church Dispute Goes into Court," "Quote Bible in Church Fracas." The reports of what occurred in the court trial do disgrace those who exposed themselves in their disobedience to Bible instructions. But their unscriptural and antiscriptural resort to the civil tribunal does not bring reproach upon the great Book divine. For church members are expressly warned to choose judges within their church association to arbitrate their controversies. Those who desire to read the prohibition will find it in the First Epistle to the Corinthians, the sixth chapter. In the third chapter the inspired writer explains the divisions and partisanship among believers in Corinth in the following words:

"And I, brethren, could not speak unto you as unto spiritual, but as unto carnal, as unto babes in Christ. I fed you with milk, not with meat; for ye were not yet able to bear it; nay, not even now are ye able; for ye are yet carnal."

Question: What is the capacity of the largest oil refinery in the United States? K. K.
Answer: The largest one has a capacity of 150,000 barrels daily. The next in size has a capacity of 65,000 a day.
Q: What will remove ink stains from school desks?
A: C. N.
Q: Put a few drops of spirits of niter in a teaspoonful of water. Touch the spot with a feather dipped in the mixture, and on the ink disappearing, rub immediately with a rag, wet in cold water, or it will leave a white mark. It should then be polished.
Q: What is the correct pronunciation of Grovesnor?
A: M. L. G.
Q: This proper noun is usually pronounced as if spelled Grow ve nor.
Q: Who selected the Seven Wonders of the World? Are any of them still in existence? F. C. R.
A: Antipater of Palestine is thought to have made the selections about 350 B.C. Only one, the Pyramids of Cheops, is still in existence.
Q: Is a sea lion or a walrus larger?
A: M. G. R.
A: A full grown male walrus is slightly larger and weighs considerably more than a female.
Q: Are single beds or double beds used abroad?
A: K. A.
Q: Single beds are usual on the continent, while the double bed is more common in England.
Q: How is the air kept fresh inside of beehives?
A: E. C.
Q: The bees provide for this. Some of them are employed constantly in fanning the air near the mouth of the hive with their wings, thus keeping a circulation of air sufficient for their needs.
Q: Did Abecedarians believe particularly in education?
Q: On the contrary, these sixteenth century followers of Nikolaus Storch believed it was best not to know how to read since the Holy Spirit would convey knowledge of the Scriptures directly to the understanding, and as education might be a hindrance to salvation, they encouraged children to leave school early and learn trades.
Q: How did the ampere get its name?
A: It was named for Andre Marie Ampere, a noted French physicist.

for whereas there is among some jealousy and strife, are not carnal, and do ye not walk after the manner of men?

Pleased With Plummer
LOS ANGELES, June 11.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Plummer is a peach. It takes a regular fellow to face an angry mob, be that mob at a prize fight or a church service. When this sturdy policeman arose in Trinity Church Sunday to enter a defense for his Chief and his department, he did things that takes courage. He proved by the action that he is well fitted to aid in the protection of life and property.

I am not attempting to say that the policeman was right, or that the persons assembled and whipped into a frenzy were right. That has nothing to do with the case. The point wanted to drive home is that Capt. Plummer, alone, in a crowd of more than a thousand persons, arose and by the weight of his presence made an antagonistic audience listen to his side of the case.

It is a thing to cry for blood when the multitude cries with you. It required but little effort to drift with the tide of public opinion. Every fellow who hallooed the loudest amen is not always a saint or even near saint. But the man, be he right or wrong, who has the courage of his convictions strong enough within him to "go to bat" when the rosters are against him is a real man.

Not because he came to the defense of the Chief, not because he rendered the department a special favor, but because he had the courage and strength of character to do what he thought needed doing. Capt. Plummer should receive a promotion. He has proven his right to the respect of friend and foe.
A. E. ARMSTRONG.

Double Duty for Park
LOS ANGELES, June 10.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Now that Pershing Square is to be made the terminus of subway, why should it not be made the site of our new city library? A central location is quite as important for the library as for the subway station. There can be no further fear of spilling a breath-taking spot—for the park as a park is already doomed.

The Normal Hill site with the additional frontage on Flower street will make a far better park proposition than Pershing Square. Park lands will not particularly mind a blank stone wall in front of them—the sky will be as blue and the trees as green. While our long-delayed library building, placed on this ground, will be foredoomed as a disappointment, and in all probability will, within

"In Just a Minute"

What happens?
A woman powdering her nose. A sluggish airplane. Two miles of space.

In the basic industries minutes are precious units of time. In the Portland cement industry they are jammed with action. Last year the mills in this country produced 455,480,000 sacks of Portland cement, 867 sacks for every minute of the year.

Replacement of worn out cotton sacks alone created a market for 50,000 new ones. 93 yards of 1 1/2 inch cotton cloth had to be woven every minute to make them—76 miles of cloth every twenty-four hours.

And dynamite and other explosives—42,000 pounds of them were shot every day to supply the glass crushers with the 130,000 pounds of raw materials used each minute.

Every twenty-four hours the mills burned more than 300 tons of coal or equivalent fuel—enough every minute to keep 100 average homes comfortably heated throughout the winter.

This was in 1922. It has been estimated that building activities this year create a demand for more than 480,000,000 sacks of cement.

Government figures show industry's capacity as 600,000 sacks per year if the mills are handicapped by transportation delays, strikes and fuel shortages.

To many "in just a minute" means delay—procrastination. To this basic industry it means speed and yet more speed in production of a commodity that goes to increase the nation's wealth of the country.

AGED WOMAN
DIES IN BATH

Body Found After Home is Broken Open
Apoplexy Apparently Cause of Her Demise

Was Living Alone at Orange;
Inquest Today

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
ORANGE, June 13.—Local authorities today broke into an apartment at Maple avenue and Olive streets and found the body of Mrs. E. S. Chandler, 83 years of age, a widow, in a bath tub. She was alone in her apartment, and apparently had died shortly after stepping into the tub.

Death, presumably from apoplexy, occurred about three days ago, as she was last seen alive at that time. The body was half submerged in water. The apartment was tightly sealed, the windows being down and the door locked from the inside in accordance with an eccentric custom of the aged occupant.

The blinds also were drawn and the apartment, which is on the ground floor of a double-deck apartment building, gave all the appearance of having been vacated by the occupant, who was in the habit of making frequent trips to surrounding communities where she had friends. For this reason the body was not discovered until today—when Mrs. Ida Smiley, who runs the apartment house, became suspicious of the woman's absence and summoned City Marshal Jensen, who, with George Grant, broke open a rear door.

In another room adjoining the bath, a gas heater was burning.

Little was known of Mrs. Chandler, who came here from Santa Ana last September. A nephew, Edgar O. Blake, residing at 314 Lake avenue, Wilmette, Ill., and a brother living in Vermont, are the only relatives.

Though in apparent good health when last seen Saturday, Mrs. Chandler appeared melancholy over the loss of some pension papers she had just received from the government.

An inquest will be conducted at the Ellis funeral parlors, where the body was removed, at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Redlands Students to Take Part in Activities Saturday

(LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.)
REDLANDS, June 13.—Commencement week at the University of Redlands begins Saturday, when the annual recital of the college of music is given under the direction of Prof. Charles H. Marsh. This is always the opening event of the week of commencement.

Thirty-three students are to receive degrees from the university this year. Baccalaureate Sunday will be their first appearance as a class in their caps and gowns. Rev. O. P. Gifford of Pasadena is to deliver the sermon at the First Baptist Church, and that evening there will be a special service for the Christian associations of the college.

Monday is to be given over to the Zanja Fiesta, the last festival of the season for the students. For the first time the seniors have taken charge of the festival and they will present three one-act plays, Prof. Marsh and Prof. E. R. Nichols coaching them.

Vigorous Clean-up of Tijuana Is Reported Under Way

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
SAN DIEGO, June 13.—A determined clean-up of Tijuana is under way today, according to word from the border town, and has resulted in the arrest of a number of American bartenders, accused of peddling narcotics. The crusade was given an interesting turn with the report that two men, one an American, on charges of having brutally mistreated a San Diego woman in one of the Tijuana cabarets Monday night. The woman, who gave her name as Anna Halliwell, told the Tijuana police she had been attacked while in a dressing-room and accused an American and an unnamed Hawaiian.

APPRECIATION DINNER FOR J. D. SPECKELS

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
SAN DIEGO, June 13.—More than 600 San Diego citizens assembled at a banquet tonight in honor of John D. Speckels, financier, city and railroad builder, and paid a unanimous tribute to the man who is declared to have done more for the development of this community than any other person. Mr. Speckels gave the dedication ceremony to several hundred San Diegans, at which time he voiced a plea for closer co-operation and harmony in promoting the interests of the city and county. The affair tonight was termed an appreciation of Mr. Speckels' services in building up the city.

JUMP IN LEMON PRICE

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
OXNARD, June 13.—Lemon growers of Ventura county are pleased today with lemons selling at from $8 to $10 a box and with the market steadily going upward. The hot weather of the East and the approaching summer season are reasons for the price increase. Citrus growers of this district expect to receive fancy prices for their fruit before the season is over.

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
VENICE, June 13.—The campaign for annexation of Venice to Los Angeles will begin in earnest Friday evening at a mass meeting being organized by the Men's Consolidation Committee.

Walter Armacost, who directed the successful campaign for annexation of Sawtelle to Los Angeles, will be the principal speaker. He will outline methods used by his organization during the annexation fight. Francis J. Honey, attorney for the annexationist of Venice, also will speak.

A women's auxiliary to the committee has been organized. It has more than 300 members. Mrs. Kate Dryden is president; Mrs. J. Reynolds and Mrs. Pearl Arbuttle, vice-presidents; Mrs. Helen L. Fennell, campaign director; Mrs. N. Y. Thornbury, treasurer, and Mrs. Fred C. Fuller, secretary.

In an effort to raise additional funds for the campaign, the auxiliary will give a card party and entertainment at the Strand cafeteria Friday afternoon. Tickets are being sold rapidly and it is expected that the campaign chest will be swelled considerably.

Members of the auxiliary are expected to turn out in a body at the mass meeting Friday.

TRIO MISS DEATH

Father, Mother and Baby in Head-on Crash with Street Car

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
POMONA, June 13.—Three persons, one of whom was a small baby, narrowly escaped death late last night when the new automobile in which they were riding was struck head on by a one-man street car near the intersection of Holt and San Antonio avenues.

The accident occurred when Mrs. B. Colton, his wife and baby were going east on Holt avenue and, in attempting to pass another machine ahead, Colton had to swerve over onto the car tracks. He failed to see the approach of the street car and the two met with a crash. Except for minor bruises and abrasions, none of the trio was injured, but the auto was completely wrecked.

The Colton family resided at 316 1/2 East D street, Ontario, where Colton is in business.

Action Outcome of Alford
Embezzlement Trial

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
ONTARIO, June 13.—Members of the Ontario Business and Professional Women's Club were exercised considerably today over having unwittingly sponsored a plea for a single tax in an address delivered at their monthly business meeting at Oma's garden last night by Mrs. Lona Ingham Robinson of Los Angeles.

Arrangements for the presence of Mrs. Robinson are said to have been made by an executive of the club, and although her subject was announced as "Our One-Legged Civilization," members of the club at a whole and most of the officers of the organization are said to have been in total ignorance that they were to listen to single-tax propaganda and they resent it.

The meeting was further featured by the acceptance of the resignation of Dr. Grace Anderson, president of the club, who recently came into the public eye when it developed at the embezzlement trial of Fred E. Alford, former Ontario City Manager, that an attempt had been made to influence the testimony of Miss Helen Scottowitz, star witness for the prosecution, in favor of the defense.

Dr. Anderson filed her resignation with Mrs. Ida Fium, secretary of the club, two weeks ago after learning a petition was being circulated demanding her withdrawal as head of the organization.

When the resignation was read to the membership last night, Miss Olive Maguire, chairman of the executive board, moved that it be rejected. Mrs. D. D. Crandall, president, and the presiding officer, if that meant that the resignation was not to be accepted. The chairman replied that the motion of Miss Maguire contemplated that of attempts of Dr. Anderson's supporters to take a rising vote went for naught, and she moved that Mrs. Ashley will continue to serve as head of the organization until the annual election next month. Other officers include Mrs. Clara B. Dowling, treasurer, and Mrs. Ida Fium, secretary.

(By a "Times" Staff Correspondent.)
SANTA MONICA, June 13.—Some one did G. R. Mordia, 4315 Brooklyn avenue, a dirty trick, which caused him to leave his car in a no-parking space this morning.

Mordia, according to police, drove upon Apian Bridge in search of a place to park his automobile. Another motorist who was backing from a stall called to Mordia with the announcement that he was lucky in obtaining such a convenient parking space. So, he drew in when the other motorist left.

This morning Mordia, as he deposited $3 bail, explained that he had been hoodwinked by the other driver, who had also received one of the same-priced tickets.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
FRESNO, June 13.—For the declared purpose of encouraging industrial peace and protecting the general public from labor disturbances, the Master Builders' Association of Fresno was organized last night. It is an integral part of the Fresno Builders' Exchange. This latter body includes a considerable number of masters of craft organizations and under the new association it is expected these units will function with ease in settling questions involving the craft.

The organization meeting was attended by more than forty general contractors and house builders. Officers were chosen as follows: President, E. J. Farr, vice-president, S. L. Allen; secretary, R. W. Chrouch; directors, E. J. Farr, S. L. Allen, W. H. Minard, M. C. Nelson, G. D. Atkins and Dan Shorb.

Chrouch, the secretary, is also master of the Builders' Exchange.

OPEN CONVENTION

With twenty-five delegates present, the California Warehousemen's Association today opened a two-day annual convention here.

William S. Hall of Chico, president of the association, gave assurance from his own observations that the warehouse business is improving and rendering a necessary and efficient service in housing the state's agricultural and manufacturing products.

The California Warehousemen's Association represents eighty members who operate approximately 10,000 acres of warehouse space in the cities and country points with an investment of $2.50 per square foot. Secretary L. A. Deane of San Francisco told the members today.

J. W. Howe of San Francisco in his talk on warehouse receipts and weight certificates, explained the efforts to institute a uniform system of warehouse receipts that would be especially beneficial to business firms using the receipts as security for loans. He would be especially beneficial to banks and others making a practice of loaning money on merchant's public storage, declared Howe.

At noon the delegates lunched as guests of the members of the Fresno Builders' Exchange. The Hotel Fresno and in the evening were entertained with a Spanish dinner at the same place.

GO TO YOSEMITE

A third business session will be called for tomorrow morning with luncheon at the Hotel Yosemite. The Exchange Club members. Reports of special committees and from members as to business will be presented. The delegates will then will close with the closing of the convention at Yosemite National Park.

W. C. Nixon of Fresno is chairman of the entertainment committee. He has arranged an impressive program for the banquet tomorrow night in addition to the theater party for the delegates the same evening.

Burbank Torn Over Proposed
New Cemetery

(LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.)
BURBANK, June 13.—To have or not to have a cemetery is still a question before the city of Burbank. The City Trustee meetings. Property owners appeared at the session last night to protest against the proposed cemetery near the ranches at the western boundaries of the town. The second reading of the ordinance was postponed until tomorrow week, due to the fact that City Attorney Godward was confined to his home with illness. Attorney Godward stated that the proposed ordinance was unconstitutional.

A proposal for zoning of the city was presented to the board by the City Planning Commission. Tentative zones had been worked out by the commission and approval by the Trustees was asked. The matter was taken under advisement.

As soon as an ordinance is passed establishing the zones the commission will work for the closing of alley spaces on San Fernando Boulevard and ask that the alley run parallel with the boulevard.

Four Men

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
HUNTINGTON BEACH, June 13.—Chief of Police Tinsley, aided by five officers, made a raid on a house on Third street near Ocean avenue last night and arrested four men who were gambling. They had $408.50 in cash with them and certified checks.

The four men were strangers here and had been in the city for a few days. The door to the room was barred and a lookout had been on duty, but failed in his duty long enough to give the police an opportunity to make the clean-up. The four were taken to the Police Court today and J. C. Jordan pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $200 and was placed under $500 cash bail, to appear the 21st inst. at 10 a.m.

Ontario Reports Three
Fires in Succession; One Woman Overcome

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
ONTARIO, June 13.—Three fires alarms in quick succession featured the thirteenth in Ontario. One woman was overcome by smoke, the destruction of the home of Chief of Police Hardy, 223 West Emporia avenue, was narrowly averted when a gasoline stove exploded, and a number of buildings were threatened.

The first alarm came shortly before 5:00 from the home of Antonio Rando, 1131 East A street, where a burning rubbish pile got beyond control and threatened to destroy a dwelling and several poultry houses. Mrs. Rando, in attempting to check the spread of the flames before the arrival of the fire department, was overcome by heat and smoke and was under the care of a doctor this evening.

Before the department had returned from this blaze, the second alarm came from the Hardy home. The fire department was alerted by the first alarm, and the blaze was well under control by the time the firemen arrived. The damage was slight.

Third alarm came later in the evening when a fire broke out in a building on the corner of Main and California streets, where burning rubbish had gotten beyond control and a number of buildings were threatened. The spread of the flames was quickly checked.

Bakersfield Employee Says
Suspect Bought Gasoline

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
BAKERSFIELD, June 13.—J. Doherty was arrested here today as a suspect in a fire which last night destroyed a rooming house at 514 Grove street, owned by Mrs. W. L. Ligon. Adjoining residences were threatened.

Two residents on the same street reported to police that Doherty was seen leaving the yard at the time the fire started. He aroused their suspicions and was turned over to the police.

Marlin Huxley, an employee of the Huxley Garage, said he recognized Doherty as the man who had been seen leaving the yard at the time the fire started. He said that he had seen Doherty buy gasoline a short time before the fire. Gasoline had been thrown on the building in two places and lighted either by a match or cigarette. Officer Smith is quoted as saying:

Police declare Doherty was said to have been a stranger at the time of the fire. He was taken to jail.

LEGION CHARGES ARE ANSWERED BY HUNT

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
PHOENIX, June 13.—Gov. Hunt this afternoon made reply to charges repeatedly made that he had failed to give the American Legion representation on his Colorado River conference.

The Governor observed the Legion is a great patriotic organization entitled to certain privileges and rights, "but it has no right to expect privileges not extended to other patriotic organizations of equal worth. In spite of the action of the Flagstaff convention, as far as I am concerned the Legion will be treated on the same basis as the other patriotic citizens."

With inference that Past Commander C. M. Stoddard has antagonistic political aspirations, the Governor added that he could not be bothered keeping track of misstatements used to further the plans of the gentleman who started the controversy.

The anti-Lion agitation continued through the last day of the convention when a delegate from Bisbee stated that the Bisbee delegation stood with Stoddard.

Exploring the fact that the camp had criticized his stand on the Governor's action, Harry G. Southworth of Prescott was elected Deputy Commander. Joseph Lieberman of Winslow Vice-Commander; B. H. Mills of Nogales Historian, and George R. Lewis of Flagstaff Sergeant-at-Arms.

ANDREE LAFAYETTE TO VISIT PARIS SOON

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
ANDREE LAFAYETTE, whose portrayal of the title role in Richard Walton Tully's screen version of "Tribal" is eagerly awaited by fans throughout the world, has decided to leave for her beloved Paris the 18th inst. She expects to spend about thirty days in the French metropolis before returning to Hollywood.

Andree is and has been terribly homesick. "I cannot understand it," she explained yesterday, with a pathetic smile. "I adore America and its people. I particularly love Hollywood and my little home here. But I feel that I must—just must see my dear ones in France and my other home there, it only for a few days."

TWO CITIES INVITE

(BY A. P. DAY WIRE.)
ST. PAUL (Minn.) June 13.—San Francisco and Chicago delegates to the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America's triennial convention have invited the convention to meet there three years hence. The San Francisco invitation also included a special request for a booking of the St. Olaf College choir of Northfield, Minn., and the Luther College band of Decorah.

POTTERIES FIRM CONTROL SHIFTS

Tropico Interests Sold to Bay City Company

Deal is Said to Represent Half-Million Dollars

Both Concerns Are Widely Known in Country

Control of Tropico Pottery, Inc., one of the foremost art products firms in this section of the country, passed yesterday to Gladding, McBean & Co. of San Francisco, the largest and oldest pottery concern west of Chicago.

Confirmation of the consummation of the deal was made by R. M. Wolkyns, president of Tropico Pottery, Inc., and vice-president of Gladding, McBean & Co., investment bankers. Mr. Wolkyns has been interested in Tropico Pottery for two years, and its present prominence is due in part to his guidance.

INCORPORATED IN 1920

For some time Gladding, McBean & Co., considered establishing a factory in Los Angeles, but finally decided their interests would best be served by obtaining control of the Tropico plant and its mineral deposits. Appraisers and expert accountants were engaged to conduct an investigation of affairs of the concern, after which the purchase was made.

Tropico Pottery, Inc., was incorporated in 1920 by Mr. Wolkyns and his associates in Stephens & Co. The new company, after lengthy negotiations with L. Lindsey, president of the Pacific Minerals and Chemical Company, concluded the purchase of property and assets of that concern, the holdings of which were located largely near Tropico Station. The Pacific Minerals and Chemical Company had conducted the plant and clay operations at this property for many years, but its development and business had not progressed in a satisfactory manner, it was said.

In addition to its plant at Tropico Station, and the industrial site which it occupies, Tropico Pottery, Inc., owns mineral deposits in San Bernardino county and considerable tracts of land in the Tropico area.

TWO FUTURE GYPSY SMITHS

Aimee Semple Macpherson Has Undertaken to Rear Youngsters for Religious Leadership

BY ALMA WHITAKER

It is an awful responsibility to undertake but Aimee Semple Macpherson has shouldered it with a brave heart. She is going to raise and train two future "Gypsy" Smiths for posterity's salvation. At present they are wee gypsy boys, one aged 3 and the other just a new-born baby. They are the sons of George Smith and his wife, Mary, who presented them to Aimee Semple Macpherson to be dedicated to the work of the Lord. Miss Macpherson had the job of conferring their names upon them—Robert and John Stephen.

And they were dedicated to this holy work at a vast meeting on Tuesday, which was attended by 5000 persons with much emotional prayer and thanksgiving. A gaily clad, queer-looking throng of gypsies participated, filling in two by two in a long procession. They saw the great Angelus Temple from my house and the streets were packed with automobiles in every direction.

Not having quite enough to do with her three services a day at the temple, Aimee Semple Macpherson has decided to have odd hours with a theological training school for evangelists, classes for which are held from 9 to 12 o'clock. She has about 100 in the class already, and later, when the two mighty atoms have reached a sufficient status of intelligence and discretion, they are expected to be star pupils in this class.

Tuesday was a fairly average day for Aimee Semple Macpherson. Three church services, the theological evangelist class, two weddings and a funeral, with a few conferences and advisory councils thrown in. Of course, she ought to be a nervous wreck, but instead she seems to thrive on it. On Monday she managed to take in a complimentary gypsy picnic to herself as well, when she was the honor guest of the Wyandolwiche tribe in the San Fernando Valley.

There are numerous interesting things about the gypsies—especially this tribe, which is wealthy. For one thing they declare they never lose their teeth. All that gold they parade in their mouths is there purely for style, because they can afford it and that is a good way to safeguard one's gold.

They also declare that they never have bald heads, never have stomach trouble, nor any of the afflictions associated with that unfortunate complaint.

It must be confessed that the gypsies, even the rich ones, do not seem to specialize in modern hygiene—which civilization considers so essential to health. But they have a splendid contempt for sickness and rather agree with that Swedish minister, Dr. Ingelman, who preached at the Liberal Catholic Church last Sunday that we should be as ashamed of our bodily ills as we are of our moral backslides.

Thus, in adopting two gypsies for embryo evangelists, Miss Macpherson is not taking over any young weaklings. Papa George and Mama Rosie have undertaken to rear them in the healthy gypsy fashion, under the guidance of Miss Macpherson, so they are not to be contaminated with the ills of civilization. And it won't be Miss Macpherson's fault if Robert and John Stephen do not arise in their might to save the sinners of 1930.

be placed above or upon it. It should not be used as a part of a costume. Many people embroider the flag on pillows and handkerchiefs. This is a common misuse. Though some of these practices constitute a strict violation of any Federal law, they are certainly not in the dignity and respect that is due the flag, and cannot be considered as the best of taste.

Child Welfare Service Meets for Last Time

After many years of juvenile welfare work throughout the city, the Southern California Child Welfare Service, founded during the war by Mrs. A. B. Sprickels of San Francisco, yesterday conducted its last official meeting and placed its affairs in the hands of the Children's Hospital.

The organization maintained an extensive system of bottle collection receptacles in shops, stores and buildings and collected more than $4000 in this manner. The contributions were used in many charitable ways, which included the establishment of a milk fund for undernourished children.

It is planned to replace the bottle receptacles now in use with nonbreakable metal containers. During the war the organization was known as the Commission for Aid, Civil and Military France. Its officers were: Mrs. Grace C. Gough, president; Daisy Rose Montgomery, first vice-president; Mrs. E. P. Warner, second vice-president; Dr. Rebecca Lee Dorsey, third vice-president; Mrs. C. N. Murphy, treasurer, and Mrs. J. C. Hilly, secretary.

Husband Kills Himself After Spat With Wife

Mrs. Ida M. Swartz went up to her husband's room in their home at 1118 E. 11th street yesterday morning to call him to breakfast. There was no response when she called to him.

She opened the door and on the floor her husband, Elias Swartz, lay dead. A pistol was on the floor beside him. He had shot himself through the head some time during the night.

Mrs. Swartz told police that she and her husband had disagreed and for some time had been separated. Recently they were reconciled, she said, but on Tuesday night had quarreled again.

Speed Shows in Starting Trial of Assorted Wobblers

A jury was sworn in, with two alternates, before Judge McCormick in Superior Court yesterday, to try twenty-seven assorted I.W.W. members charged with criminal syndicalism. Eight days were consumed in selecting the jury.

"I am going to speed up this trial," Judge McCormick declared. "We will hold night sessions if necessary. I will not permit it to drag on as long as other criminal syndicalism trials have."

Judge McCormick speeded up the jury selection considerably by questioning the talesmen first himself. This was objected to at first by the defendants, but they acquiesced later.

COUNCIL GETS OFFICIAL VOTE

Candidates Are Formally Declared Elected

School Board, Councilmen Take Office July 2

Freeholders Are to Begin Work at Once

The City Council yesterday received from City Clerk Dominguez the tabulation of the vote cast at the city election conducted the 5th inst. approved it as the official vote, declared the successful candidates elected, the five bond issues carried and the power bonds defeated, and accepted the affirmative vote on the Pershing Square subway station and the North End site for the City Hall as the mandates of the people.

Upon motion of Councilman Sparks, who failed of re-election to the Council, the following candidates were formally declared elected:

City Council, Robert M. Allan, Boyle Workman, Walter Mallard, Ralph L. Crawford, W. J. Sanborn, W. C. Mosher, Miles S. Gregory, Fred C. Wheeler and Edwin Dink.

The new members of the Council, Miss Peggy Clark, pro-tem, and Gregory.

Board of Education, Elizabeth Louise Clark, John B. Beman, Robert A. Odell, Robert L. Burns, Frank O. Bristol, Lucia L. Burns, and Frederick R. Feltshama. Odell is the only member of the present board among the successful candidates.

Board of Freeholders: Charles A. Baskerville, Watt L. Moreland, Nathan Newby, William Mead, Robert M. Clarke, Franklin D. Howell, E. P. Clark, Ida L. Bellows, Orra E. Monetta, Percy H. Booth, John S. Horn, John H. Haynes, Joseph H. Tolhurst, Dora A. Stearns and Henry W. Keller.

While the new City Council and Board of Education will not take office until July 2, the Board of Freeholders will go to work at once to draft a new city charter for submission to the voters early next year.

William Mead was sworn in yesterday as a member of the Board of Freeholders and the other four teen members elected will likewise take their oaths of office within the next few days, so that probably next week the board will hold its first meeting, elect a president and secretary and set dates for its sessions.

The first Councilman to be sworn in yesterday was Edwin Baker. Royce Workman was the second to take the oath of office.

Mrs. Elizabeth Louise Clark was sworn in as a member of the Board of Education.
